

WANTS PROSECUTION CARRIED TO LIMITS

SENATOR POMERENE DEMANDS ATTORNEY GENERAL CARRY OUT OIL AND TOBACCO SUITS.

THE LAW IS SPECIFIC

Asks if Emblem of Authority Shall be Oil Barrel or Tobacco Tag—Asks Criminal Prosecution.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, D. C., June 15.—Criminal prosecution of the officers of the Standard Oil and American Tobacco companies was demanded today by Senator Pomerene, who addressed the senate on his resolution calling on the attorney general to undertake such legal action. He declared that the Sherman law is specific in its authority to press such suits against conspirators who restrain trade.

"Now, with the plain findings of fact and the conclusions by the court that this statute has been violated," he said, "what reason can be given by any sworn court official for not continuing his fight against them in order to bring them to the bar of justice?"

"Shedding for myself, I think it high time the American people should understand whether the stars and stripes are to be the emblem of their power and authority, or whether that emblem shall be an oil barrel or a tobacco tag."

The senator closed with an appeal to the senate for their support of the resolution.

In the senate today Senator Nelson of Minnesota spoke at length in opposition to the Canadian reciprocity. He contended that the President had no authority to undertake negotiations with Canada and charged that the chief executive had usurped the treaty-making power of the senate. Senator Nelson followed the passage of the reciprocity bill.

Among the witnesses summoned to appear before the "Sugar Trust" investigating committee were Charles Harrison of Philadelphia, Harry H. Warren of Detroit, Joseph Smith of the Mormon church, Earl Lake, John D. and Adolph Spreckles of San Francisco.

Smith, who held the Mormon church interests will be asked to tell the committee what he knows of the formation of the Utah-Idaho Sugar Company, as a combination.

A resolution adopted in 1898 by the directors of the sugar corporation authorizing their committee to fix the price of sugar and buy "outside refineries at terms to be fixed at their discretion."

This confronted the officials of the "sugar trust," today when they appeared before the house committee. The resolution was found in the minute books of the company, that the committee required it to produce.

ROOSEVELT MAKES A VERY BITTER ATTACK ON THE NEWSPAPERS

Former President Classifies Them as Worse Than the Labor Leaders They Have Attacked in Their Columns.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

New York, June 15.—"Certain of the capitalistic newspapers of the stamp of that owned by General Otis have been responsible for far more brutal utterances than can be attributed to any recognized labor leader," says Theodore Roosevelt, in a leading editorial in the current Outlook, headed, "Mr. Gompers, General Otis and The Dynamite Charge."

The article is Colonel Roosevelt's direct answer to editorials of General Otis in the Los Angeles Times, and President Gompers, in the American Federationist. Roosevelt refers to his original editorial on the McAdams arrests. In the Outlook, which, he says, was only a personal plea for a fair and impartial trial of the accused man. He then quotes the following as General Otis' reply to him:

"If the Times' building was dynamited, says Mr. Facing Both Ways, then those who did the work should be punished. The Times feels that the 'if' is an unholding of the cause of disorder and a distinct aid to the villains who lusted and procured the murder of twenty innocent men, and the destruction of $500,000 worth of property."

"General Otis, in this article, has taken the very position against which all good citizens should protest when taken by the labor men," continues Roosevelt. "That is, the purpose of my article was to protest against the assuming before the trial what it was hoped to prove or disprove at the trial; and in this way General Otis is guilty of conduct which could not be too severely denounced if the offender were a labor leader, and which, therefore, cannot be too severely denounced when the offender is a prominent opponent of organized labor and a constant enemy of every movement for social and economic betterment—just as he has shown himself the consistent enemy of the men in California who have dared resolutely to stand against corruption and in favor of honesty."

"The article by Mr. Gompers in the American Federationist offers the most striking contrast, in tone and temper to the article of General Otis. Mr. Gompers' editorial is a fair and honorable statement of a position with which I only partly disagree, couched in language which warrants respectful and careful attention."

"The attitude of General Otis in his paper affords a curious instance of the anarchy of soul which comes to the man who in consequenceless fashion disposes property at the expense of human rights—no less surely than it comes to the man who in the name of human rights wars upon all men of property, good and bad."

"Roosevelt then quotes Gompers' invitation to read current trade union literature to secure first hand information of the labor union situation, and says:

"This is an honorable invitation expressed in an honorable way, and I shall certainly take advantage of it. Mr. Gompers says that the trade unionists only want a fair trial. That is all I wish. Let us find out who is guilty, and who is innocent. . . . Now let me most earnestly ask Mr. Gompers and those associated with him in the cause of labor that they, in their turn, make it equally evident that they do not intend to stand by the men, right or wrong; that they wish to have an absolutely fair chance to prove their innocence, but that they will join with every other citizen in hearty condemnation of them, and will endeavor to bring them to punishment if they are guilty. No feeling of hostility to the Los Angeles Times must be allowed to interfere with this."

"It may be quite true that this paper has again and again shown itself to be as much an enemy of good citizenship, of honest and decent government, of every effective effort to secure fair play for working men and women as any anarchist could show himself to be; but that has nothing to do with the case. If the paper dynamited had been a socialist paper in Milwaukee I should strive just as hard to bring to justice the wrongdoers as now, when the paper dynamited happens to be a capitalist paper in Los Angeles."

INCOME TAX BILL TO BECOME A LAW SOON

Believed That Nothing Can Stop Final Passage of Law Putting Tax on Income.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, June 15.—It is the belief of well informed members of the legislature today that the income tax bill passed by the senate late yesterday with a referendum provision, will be speedily approved by the Assembly, and, as provided for in the referendum provision placed before the people for approval in the November elections. Such a course, they declared is only justifiable to the masses so vitally affected by the proposed law.

STOKERS TREATED AS CATTLE; ENGLISHMAN JUSTIFIES STRIKE

Delegate of Soldiers and Fireman's Union Tells of Conditions Bringing On Present Walkout.

[BY UNITED PRESS.]

New York, June 15.—Outlining the history of the fight now being waged by the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union for recognition, better working conditions and higher wages, Matthew Fenley, delegate to America gave the following exclusive interview to the United Press:

"The strike which we are simultaneously declared at Antwerp, Liverpool, Amsterdam and other big European ports are results of a fight that has been carried on for twenty years."

"On most of the big liners and especially the Cunard boats, the men are fairly well treated. But on others, and especially on the tramp steamers they are no better off than cattle. The firemen are compelled to work in four hour shifts under conditions that are inhuman. Men cannot stand such hours in a stokehold. Even on the big liners the men are too closely packed together in the forecabin where they eat and sleep. On the smaller ships and tramp steamers unsanitary conditions that prevail are appalling. Men are crowded in short shallow bunkers; the air is frightful, and the food is rancid, men feeding with vermin, soggy potatoes that would not be thrown to swine, and the poorest imitation of coffee imaginable. It is the rule that captains on most ships are furnished so much each day for feeding the crew. Of course, any of this food left over goes to the captain."

SPEAKER PRESENTED WITH A GOLD WATCH

ASSEMBLY GAVE INGRAM HANDSOME TIMEPIECE THIS MORNING.

COMMITTEE SELECTED

Conference Committee Chosen in Senate for Consideration of Gottle's Initiative and Referendum Bill.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Madison, June 15.—Members of the assembly today stopped work long enough to present Speaker Ingram with a handsome gold watch. The presentation speech was made by Assemblyman J. J. Mendenhall of New Lisbon. Speaker Ingram replied, briefly, congratulating the assembly on being one of the most progressive and energetic of the state's history.

Will Not Reconsider Bill. The lower house today, after a lengthy discussion, refused to reconsider the vote by which it killed the Alton bill creating a state textbook commission. The vote was 25 to 39. The assembly also killed the bill providing for a state board of education to have supervision of the work now performed by the university regents, normal school regents, state superintendent of public instruction, and all other boards having to do with the educational system of the state.

Gottle's Measure. The senate today appointed a conference committee on the Gottle resolution for a constitutional amendment for the adoption of the initiative and referendum in the enactment of legislation. The resolution passed the assembly but met amendments in the senate, to which the assembly refused to concur. The amendments, one of which gives the people the right to initiate laws, will be threshed out in the conference.

TERMINAL TAX GETS BOOST IN PASSAGE OF NYE'S MEASURE

House Passes Nye Bill To Tax Ore Docks and Warehouses At Railroad Terminals.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., June 15.—Terminal taxation against which bitter opposition has been made at this and other sessions of the legislature, was given a boost in the direction of final passage yesterday noon, when the assembly passed Assemblyman Nye's bill permitting local taxation of railroad ore docks and warehouses at terminals. Superior, where the bill is greatly in favor, is now subjected to disadvantages by being restricted from taxing many large terminal companies whose yards and other properties cover a great acreage and which are receiving municipal benefits without payment directly of taxes in return.

This bill in all probability will be the subject of a strenuous contest in the senate. Arranged in opposition to the measure is the tax commission, which holds that the principle involved is subversive to the state plan of taxation now in force generally in Wisconsin.

The vote on the bill in the assembly was 61 to 18. Through the absence of a number who had been expected to vote for the proposition, the vote for the bill for the floorman resolution for a legislative investigation into the advisability of removing the state fair was refused adoption in the assembly, by a vote of 41 to 33. Assemblyman Deunhardt of Winnebago county who was leading the fight for the investigation, later caused to be entered a motion for reconsideration, and is confident that with a full membership present a defeat can be turned into victory.

Working under high pressure the assembly at the afternoon session attacked the bills ready for engrossment, passed many of them under suspension of the rules, and all others that were not killed were advanced. The idea was to expedite business as much as possible, in order that on Friday the week will be principally the final passage of a large number of measures to which there is little or no opposition. In this manner the house passed the following bills of interest:

Yonmans—Increasing the appropriation for the state board of health to $20,000 and enlarging the scope of the board's work.
L. L. Johnson.—Restricting the number of county training schools to 25.
Mabon—Appropriating $3,000 to the agricultural experiment station for use in experimenting in the production of pure seeds.

Important bills sent to engrossment were the following, all of which had to be amended, preventing immediate passage:
Hoyert.—Permitting county boards to insure buildings in the state insurance fund.
Mr. Hanson, who is a fire insurance agent at Manitowish, alone voted against this bill.

Gilroy.—Increasing the required strength of bridges to those which will carry a "moving load" of fifteen tons, instead of ten, as the present law provides.

This bill has had a varied career, as many as four substitutes and a dozen amendments having been presented, most of which were rejected, and the bill now represents solely the ideas of Mr. Gilroy, who has assumed all objections.

The assembly killed the Hoyert bill providing for the publication of a booklet for the "cooperative" advertisement of candidates in Milwaukee city elections. This action doubtless was part of the "unholy alliance" entered into between the social democrats, who traded votes on the road bill and other propositions, and various members, individually and collectively, in order to defeat anything that looked toward non-partisan elections.

THE SPORT WORLD

TO PLAY FOR SCORES AT CLUB TOMORROW

Picked Team From Local Club Will Play Against "Par" Tomorrow in Western Golf Association Tourney.

Members of the team of the Shinnipit Golf Club which will compete in the contest for membership in the Western Golf Association and the accompanying medal, will assemble at the golf grounds tomorrow afternoon to register their scores. They will compete against "par", a score derived from computation of distances.

The members of the team picked by the local committee to compete in the tourney are Leo Brown, Albert Schukler, J. P. Baker, G. Sutherland, J. L. Wilcox, E. C. Haiman, F. C. Grant, and Thoma Brower. The substitutes are F. J. Baker, J. G. Rexford, George E. King, C. H. Gage, H. H. Hiss, A. J. Harris, A. P. Hurdman and P. S. Sholdon.

These substitutes have been picked in case it should be impossible for any one of the players to be present. It is urged that both the team members and their substitutes be present. The scores from the match tomorrow will be sent to the central committee and from there the scores sent by other clubs, the winning team will be picked. The team winning three tourneys in succession will become the possessors of the Tom Murphy trophy.

MUCH INTEREST IN CARD AT THE RINK

West Side Rink To Be Packed At Exhibition In Padded Arena—Many From Chicago and Madison.

Janesville fight fans will be given an opportunity to see one of the best cards at the West Side Rink this evening. The winning team will be picked. The team winning three tourneys in succession will become the possessors of the Tom Murphy trophy.

Homeland is a game little fighter and states that he will give Forbes one of the hardest battles of his career. He stands well on his feet and can take his share of the swinging. Much interest is being taken here and in the home of the fighters in the outcome of the scrap and true fans are watching the one time favorite, Forbes, in his revival of his fighting days.

The semi-windup will be no distraction from the bill either, then rhinoceros being Kild De Mann of Holivud, and Tony Conel of Gary, Ill., and Young Cox a local scrapper and Kild Travers of Chicago. The former will go eight rounds at 142 pounds and the others six rounds at 124. Several of these men have fought here before and their ability as furnishers of good bouts is well known.

Most of the two hundred and fifty automobiles in the Chicago club tour, will be at the rinkside and about forty coats have been ordered by Madison fans, who intend to come down for the record card. Special interest is being manifested by the Chicago people in the performance of Harry Forbes as they are well acquainted with his good record while in his prime, and are anxious to see him come back. Added interest is taken from the fact that Walter Eckersall of the Tribune, is to referee the headliner.

Fights Scheduled For Tonight: Leo Houck vs. Joe Thomas, 6 rounds at Lancaster, Pa.; Jack White vs. Tommy Kilbane, 15 rounds, at Akron Ohio.

PIERRE VEDRINE, AVIATOR WHO WON PARIS TO MADRID RACE.

The hero of French aviators today is Pierre Vedrine, who through his daring and courage, crossed mountain ridges, demonstrated his unusual nerve, and on the lap of his coat hangs the crown of the order of Alphonse XII, which is reserved for persons who have distinguished themselves in arts and sciences. Upon his arrival to the Spanish capital, a friendly crowd bore the victorious aviator on their shoulders to the Tribunal where he was showered with roses and kissed repeatedly by women.

ROCKFORD RAMBLERS

PLAY HERE SUNDAY

All Star Baseball Organization of Forest City Will Meet Janesville Team At Fair Grounds.

On Sunday afternoon Manager Walter Brown's city team will meet the Ramblers of Rockford at the Fair Grounds, one of the strongest baseball organizations outside the W. L. league team in the Forest City.

The Ramblers met and defeated the Madison city team, which lost to Janesville last Sunday 6 to 3, by a 5 to 3 score.

Thursday, a clever twirler, who has a reputation for strikeouts will be on the slab for Rockford. Erickson will be at the receiving end. Smith, who has shown his skill on the slab in previous contests for Janesville, or Peterson, who is well known as an able pitcher, will pitch for the locals with Cronin as back stop.

Brown has booked some good contests of late, although the crowds have been poor, and Sunday's match promises to equal if not exceed in excellence those of the past.

LITTLE TOTS ENJOY OUT OF DOOR DANCES

Adams School Kindergarten Had a June Pageant All Its Own On Tuesday Afternoon.

The accompanying picture was taken during the exercises held by the Adams School Kindergarten held on Tuesday last in the little triangle near the school building. The exercises were under the direction of Miss Buckmaster who was assisted by Misses Wilcox and Curtis.

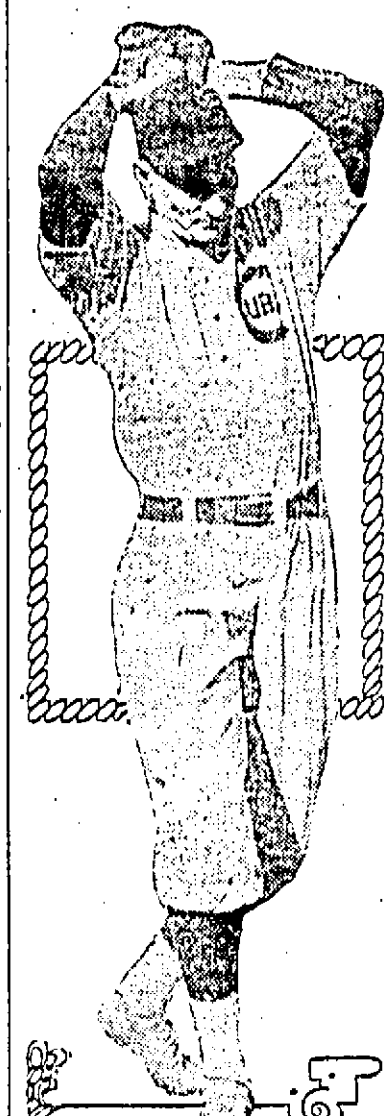

GATHERING OF SECOND WARD KINDERGARTEN AT UNIQUE CUTTING IN "TRIANGLE" PARK.

It was three-thirty when the little folks marched from the school in single file onto the triangle and were seated in a circle. Then as each section was called upon, it responded with its drill. First was executed very nicely the three following steps: the point and cross, the toe-front and back, and the tap-step. Following this they presented a clever little flag drill. At the end of this exercise they formed an arch or bridge with their flags which was very pretty.

A short drill was then given which was called the "Chimes of Dunkirk." After this the May-pole dance was given. This was also very pretty. Next in order came the "How do you do" drill and the "Merry-go-round." After these a few more dances and exercises were given and lastly the entertainment was closed with the exercise called "Lads and Lassies."

The following is a list of those who took part in the festival: Norman O'Hara, Virginia Angell, Mark Arner, Harold Hamann, Stewart Bolton, Morris Cameron, Bertha Claxton, Hazel Clifton, Marjorie Cook, Francis Daly, Louise Decker, Myrtle Dumphrey, Fritzie Dusk, Gladys Heller, Willie Henke, Vernon Hilton Margaret Miller, Allan Nequette, Isabella Nimmer, Stradford Parish, Elmeda Perry, Pauline Reine, Sarah Sandifer, Edwin Schooff, Benny Schultz, Frances Seefeld, Edna Shinnel, Warren Shinnel, Kate Stone, Floyd Stone, Frederick Thiele, Alice Ward, Francis Brownell, Elizabeth Caplan, Ruth Fletcher, Mildred Hubbert, Edwin Mullen, Chester Quirk.

FRED TONEY.

PITCHING GREAT BALL

Fred Toney has been pitching some great ball this season and has won his way to the hearts of the West Side fans. In the recent Brooklyn series Toney replaced three-finger Brown at the end of the second inning after they had batted Brown around the lot at will and held the trolley dodgers down to a few scattered hits and one run during the balance of the game.

Grand Chicago Handicap, Shoot Chicago, Ill., June 15.—Amateur and professional trap shooters numbering more than 100 and including some of the best in the country faced the traps at the opening of the Grand Chicago Handicap tournament. The programme for the tournament covers three days. In addition to the $500 trophy donated by the Chicago Gun Club the winners in the several events will divide among them over $1,000 in added money.

EDGERTON WAREHOUSE SOLD TO EASTERNER

William Brill of New York Buys Scott Warehouse in Tobacco City for $9,500.

Edgerton, June 15.—A deal of unusual importance was closed here yesterday whereby William S. Brill of New York, an extensive leaf dealer at that place, becomes owner of the Scott warehouse in this city. The building is located on Front street.

GATHERING OF SECOND WARD KINDERGARTEN AT UNIQUE CUTTING IN "TRIANGLE" PARK.

In direct line with various other monstrosities brick structures and is the third largest of the kind in the Tobacco City. The consideration is $9,500. That Mr. Brill will appoint a resident representative here as buyer, is a foregone conclusion.

Personal.

Mrs. Mary Harrington went to Stoughton this morning to spend the day.

Mrs. Harry Ash left for Chicago this morning on a business trip, and will return tomorrow.

Arthur A. Hennessy, night operator of the C. & N. P. railway here, after a month's vacation, resumed his duties last night.

Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Grams, residing in the second ward, welcomed the arrival of a daughter, born on Tuesday.

Fred W. Thom, for the past year connected with the Edgerton Cigar company, left last night for Hamilton Lake, Wis., where on the 21st inst. he will be married to Miss Frieda Gless of that place. They will reside in Edgerton.

Miss Emily Watson, who was taken to Chicago, Tuesday, submitted to an operation Wednesday for mastoid abscess. The operation is reported as successful and the patient's condition is favorable. The operation was performed by Drs. Bussey and Green at the Haverwood hospital. Miss Mary Watson, a sister, went to that city yesterday.

Mrs. H. D. Stoppenbeck, accompanied by the Misses Hazel Conn and Lenta Brehl, departed this morning on a pleasure and sight-seeing trip to points in the East, including the Hudson river, Niagara Falls, Long Island, New York and other points of interest. The former will remain ninety days and the latter thirty days.

M. P. Gibson, who left the employ of the Edgerton Cigar company some time ago, to enjoy a trip in the South, has returned and is back again in his former position.

At the Carlton.

Guests at the Carlton hotel, Wednesday, were: C. B. Evans, Janesville; C. C. Wood, Stoughton; Geo. J. Hurm, J. N. Mahan, Madison; W. J. Shanley, Racine; R. Haessler, E. Van Roon, J. B. GOES TO ROME AS REPRESENTATIVE OF PHILIPPINES.

San Francisco.—Mrs. Martin Egan, who arrived from Manila on the liner Mongolia, is going to Rome, not to do as the Romans do, but to help show the Romans, and, incidentally, the rest of the world, Mrs. Egan, who is the wife of Martin Egan, a newspaperman well known here and now editor of the Manila Times, is president of the Philippine branch of the National anti-tuberculosis society and is going to Rome to attend the international anti-tuberculosis convention as the representative of the Philippine Islands.

Pennsylvania Democrats Active. Harrisburg, Pa., June 15.—Several hundred prominent Democrats, representing the progressive element of the party in Pennsylvania, rounded up here today for a conference and banquet. The announced purpose of the gathering is to form a federation of clubs and enlist the young men of the party in the movement for reorganization. The immediate purpose is to strengthen the movement to overthrow the Guffey administration when the Democratic state committee meets next month. To add to the attractions of the conference and banquet and to give weight to the plans of the reorganizers the leaders in charge of the gathering have secured as speakers Governor Woodrow Wilson of New Jersey, Speaker Champ Clark and one or two other Democrats of national prominence.

EMPEROR STILL LIVES AND DRIVES DAILY.

Vienna, Austria.—In spite of the persistent rumors current in Paris that Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria has died suddenly, it is given out in semi-official form that his health has improved and that he drives daily for hours. It is well known, however, that the aged monarch is in poor health and the world will not be surprised to learn of his death at any time.

SPORTING NOTES

CONTESTING CARS OF RELIABILITY RUN IN THE CITY TONIGHT

ANNUAL CONTEST BETWEEN TWO CHICAGO CLUBS.

THE HOTELS ARE FULL

Cherry Circle Has Majority of Entries in the Big Contest Which Stops Here Over Night.

Janesville was invaded this afternoon by nearly two hundred Chicago auto enthusiasts composing the contesting teams of the Chicago Automobile Association and the Chicago Athletic Association in their annual reliability run.

There were cars of all makes and descriptions, the majority of them big power machines, driven by enthusiasts, who are struggling for the perfect score which will entitle their team to be declared the winner of the trophy, the inter club shield that has been twice won by the Chicago Athletic Club team, and once by the Chicago Automobile Club contestants.

The entries for the race show that the Chicago Automobile Association has an advantage on numbers, having twenty-six cars entered, to the fifteen of Chicago Athletic Association. However the rules of penalization are such that this difference in numbers will not in any way effect the chances of victory of the smaller team.

The C. A. A. team is captained by Captain Charles Kingsley and the C. A. C. by Captain Allen S. Ray. There are one hundred and eighty men in the two teams and with the officials and visiting newspaper men the total number of visitors easily reaches two hundred. The larger portion are quartered at the Myers hotel, where reservations were made for one hundred and fifty and the checking in and out will be from this hotel.

The start was made from Grant Park, near Van Buren street, at nine this morning. The first car to leave was that of Capt. Kingsley, followed a minute later by Capt. Ray's car of the C. A. C. and from that time until the entire forty-one cars left they started at one minute intervals. N. H. VanSicklen acted as starter and arrived in Janesville three quarters of an hour ahead of the first contesting car this afternoon, not being restricted to the twenty mile an hour gait prescribed in the regulations.

The route followed from Chicago was through Maywood, Lombard, Geneva and St. Charles to Marengo, where forty minutes was given for the lunch hour. The route then wound up through Belvidere, Rockford, Kewanee, Beloit and into Janesville. The route by distance is given as follows: Through Maywood, 12 miles; Lombard, 21.1; West Chicago, 31; St.

Charles, 38.3; Uolna, on the road race course, 50.6; McQuens, 52.2; Harmony, 62.5; Marengo, the noon stop, 70.2; Belvidere, 82.2; Cherry Valley, 89.1; Rockford, 95.4; Beloit, 114.2; and Janesville, 128.

The party's stop for luncheon came as a break in the day, the luncheon having been sent out last night from Chicago in a motor truck and was ready for the visitors when they reached the luncheon stop.

The judges in today's contest are: C. G. Smead, E. G. Westlake, L. E. Eater, and J. J. Phinegan. The starter will be John G. De Long, and the clerk of the course G. A. Tull. A. M. Hobbing will be the pilot, the pacemaker will be A. J. Banta, and H. P. Wrenshall chief checker. In the way of official cars, the pilot will be an Abbott-Detroit, the pacemaker a Locomobile, the judges' car a Thomas six, the starters' car a Ford, and the chief checker's a Kleanhart.

Among the prominent drivers from the Automobile Club who are here with their cars are: Capt. Allen S. Ray, P. J. McKenna, Frank X. Mudd, E. T. Frankel, Burley B. Ayers, E. C. Patterson, L. R. Parker, T. J. Hyman, N. H. VanSicklen Jr., Walter Engemann, Charles Turner, and G. P. Griffin.

On the Chicago Athletic Club team may be found: Capt. Kingsley of the C. A. A., F. W. Wentworth, S. W. Hanna, W. C. Thorne, L. T. Jacques, W. F. Grover, H. H. Latham, Frank M. Lynch, Z. T. Davis, A. Ormeyer, Harry Daniels, J. C. McCord, E. H. Young, C. C. Ireland, A. E. Coon, and Clare A. Briggs.

Immediately upon being checked in here the cars were taken to the various garages throughout the city where arrangements had been made for their accommodation. The drivers and others were invited to the Elks' club room where a buffet luncheon was served them and the freedom of the club tendered them while in the city. Arrangements had also been made at the Y. M. C. A. for baths and many availed themselves of the opportunity to wash off the dust of the journey.

Extra automobile supports were served at the Myers, Grand and Park Hotels where the visitors were quartered. This evening the visitors are invited to make themselves at home at the Elks' Club rooms or attend the boxing contests which are being held at the West Side rink, some hundred tickets for which were quickly purchased by the parties in the first few cars.

The cars will start on their return trip tomorrow morning at nine and will take the following route back to Chicago: Through Emerald Grove, 7.4; Fairfield, 11.1; Valworth, 25.6; Pontiac, 27.9; Genoa Junction, 30; Richmond, 38.6; McHenry, noon stop, 58.2; Volo, 63.7; Vanhous, 71.6; Half Day, 75.5; Deerfield, 82.2; Wilmette, 97.3; Evanston, 100.4; Chicago, 112.8.

The first car to arrive in the city was a Velle, containing C. G. Ballew, Frank Ballard and C. A. Spaulding, all of the Chicago Athletic Association. The car was not one of the contestants, however.

Telephone communication between here and Beloit at 5:30 revealed the fact that the first two cars to appear there had left that city for Janesville a few minutes before.

First Car In. The first contesting car arrived at the Myers Hotel at 3:40. It is a hotel car driven by H. P. Brandstetter accompanied by O. J. Tanimo.

Auto Engineers Meet in Dayton
Dayton, Ohio, June 15.—Nearly five hundred engineers engaged in the automobile and kindred industries are attending the mid summer meeting of the society of Automobile Engineers, which began in this city today with headquarters at the Algonquin Hotel. The engineers will spend the remainder of the week in sessions devoted to business professional discussion and recreation.

The average consumption of matches in France is 1,146 a person each year, representing a cost of about 23 cents.

Interclub Tour Route and Team Captains

League Roy Miller of Boston heads the list with a percentage of .375. Doon of Philadelphia .361; F. Clark of Pittsburgh .360; Wagner of Pittsburgh .344.

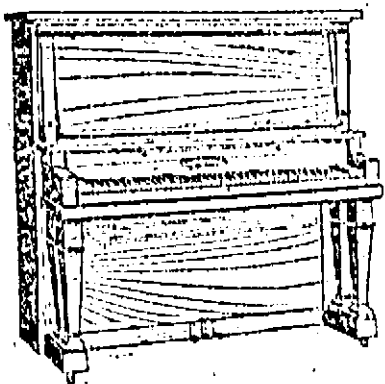

Among the clubs the Athletics lead on the American side, with Detroit second. In the National League Philadelphia leads with Pittsburgh second.

GENUINE PIANO WORTH AND VALUE

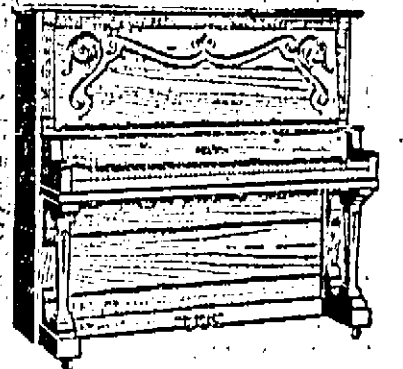

At Amazing Price Reductions

Here's Opportunity--the Opportunity You Have Been Waiting For.

DON'T FAIL TO TAKE ADVANTAGE OF IT

We're right in the heart of this Sale now. It took a few days to spread the good news. The result could not but increase our sales, as well as solve the problem of furnishing the home with a piano. Prudent people are taking advantage of the special terms, especially on account of the extraordinary values offered. There is no exaggeration of values. The economy is all it seems to be. No guess work, but a plain up-to-date business proposition. It's the chronometer against the old sand glass. Every day, since the sale started, has brought a more rapid buying of pianos, and now the early buyers are helping in the advertising.

The Sale Explained

The Piano House of Clough & Warren at Detroit failed. We offered cash for the stock, and got it at considerably less than half the regular wholesale prices. Now we sell them to you at a very small margin. You get the advantage of the immense concessions given us by the receiver of the bankrupt concern, Clough & Warren. Clough & Warren's business was established in Detroit in 1850. Their pianos rank among the leading makes of the country.

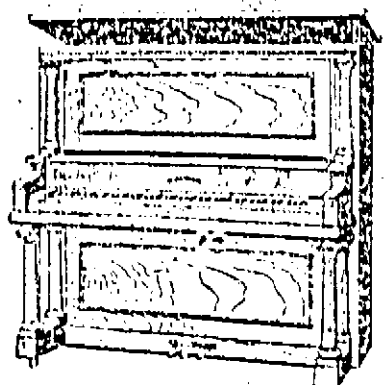

This is truly a great piano buying opportunity. Don't delay, this stock will soon be disposed of. Our own iron-clad ten year guarantee goes with every piano. Old instruments taken in exchange. Small monthly payments can be arranged for. Store open evenings. Pianos delivered free within 50 miles of Janesville. All pianos are brand new.

It's easy to see what you save by studying this list:

Regular Price	Sale Price	Regular Price	Sale Price
$400	$215	$475	$275
$425	$240	$500	$295
$450	$265	$550	$315

We give you our own signed ten-year guarantee with every Clough & Warren piano sold during this sale. Such an opportunity as this comes but once in a lifetime. You cannot afford to let it go unheeded. Piano buying is easy at our store.

DOLLAR DIPLOMACY.

No matter how much or how little there may be in the prediction of general Central American insurrection that comes to us by way of New Orleans, there appears to be sufficient reliable information in hand at Washington to warrant the government in taking immediate and expensive precautions against outbreaks. The very fact that a "political overturn" is deemed possible in a majority of the Central American republics is sufficient, should the matter go no farther, to arouse renewed public interest in this country in the policy, called "dollar diplomacy," which Secretary Knox is striving to have the senate recognize and endorse.

Reduced to its simplest form, "dollar diplomacy" means nothing more and nothing less than that the United States shall henceforth be a real friend as well as a professed guardian of those republics. The observance of this nation shall stand between the Latin republics and foreign interference, the term "foreign" having reference in this connection to all non-American powers. There is, however, a vast amount of difference between standing by them to the extent of learning their actual needs and making a reasonable effort to meet them. Cuba was in serious trouble. The United States stepped in as a friend, settled her difficulties in a friendly way, and stepped out as a friend. San Domingo was in trouble. The United States stepped in as a friend, and at this moment it is engaged in the friendly task of putting the financial affairs of that little republic on a sound and satisfactory basis. Honduras is in trouble, and it is proposed that this government take such action as will enable American financiers to help her out under proper guarantees. "Dollar diplomacy" means that the United States shall take a financial as well as a moral interest in the neighboring peoples, each time requiring the assurance which the lender always expects and exacts of the borrower.

In the case of the Central American republics there is no question as to the ability of any of them to meet its obligations, and the main conditions requisite to loans and investments are good order, stability of government, development of resources. "Dollar diplomacy" means that the United States, having loaned to or invested money in any of these republics, will proceed to see that the conditions mentioned shall be brought about and maintained not by force, but by appeals to the self-interest of the republics and their peoples. In accordance with their disposition to observe their obligations will help be extended to them. That is, they will be subject to the law of credit.

It is high time the United States was either assuming more responsibility for its Latin republican neighbors or disclaiming the responsibility it already assumes. This responsibility is none the less moral because it demands closer attention to the material needs of their peoples. The guardian nation, when all is said, has been negligent if not indifferent. Under the Monroe doctrine, which it expects all the rest of the world to recognize and respect, it should be neither.

THE CITY PARKS.

To a stranger who visited the upper end of the Court House park on Wednesday and passed to witness the wonderful pageant produced there in the natural theatre, could not but marvel on the park facilities that would permit such a spectacle and admit of so many persons being able to enjoy the out of doors life.

Janesville does not appreciate the blessings that nature and man have given us. In the long, sweeping lawns of the Court House park, the beautiful trees, the fountain, the benches, the flowering shrubs, the flowers, all go to add to the beauty of nature. Here hundreds find cool, shady nooks to rest during the heat of the day; here children can romp and play, public meetings can be held, concerts given, and pageants similar to that of yesterday held.

Few cities have stretches of real play and recreation grounds as has Janesville. In the Fourth ward is another park; a third is found in Riverview park, and still other tiny triangles find places in various wards throughout the city. All are open to the public, all are kept up with grass cut and trees trimmed. It is money well expended this care for the wonders of nature given us to enjoy.

When William Penn sailed across the broad Atlantic to found in Pennsylvania the city of Philadelphia, of Brotherly Love, he laid out his future home with narrow streets and alleys, but every few blocks arranged for recreation spots, places where today huge, iron rises their heads in the midst of the smoky office buildings or amid stately residences.

Other cities, built later, fail to appreciate these needs; the village green of the pioneer days is perhaps left, but no real park is made. Later they appropriate it and expend thousands and millions of dollars to create what nature meant for them to enjoy.

AMERICAN JOURNALISM.

Journalism, like other phases of American life at the present time, is undergoing a process of criticism from within and from without. The agent of much exposure of the shortcomings of other callings and non-conformity to a higher standard of ethics, journalism is now being forced to turn its eyes inward, to explore its own conscience, its own taste, its own code of ethics, its own sources of income. From such introspection and interior criticism, no doubt, much good will come. "Know thyself" is a duty as imperative upon a specialized form of human endeavor as it is upon a man contributing to it; and every sign that appears above the horizon indicating that American journalism is awaking to its own need of facing a judgment day is to be welcomed. For out of knowledge of inward motives comes wisdom that will safely guide in future outward acts.

But there is a criticism from without that must be expected and met. It may come in such drastic indictments of the American as Price Collier is making now as he moves about this country, following recent study of the comparative civilizations of Asia and Europe and a prior prolonged term of residence in Europe. Or it may be the utterance of a bold prolate like Bishop Williams, who told the students of Loyola University, last Sunday, that the "typical American newspaper follows rather than leads public opinion. It panders to the desire for sensation and the lowest taste of the people."

Such critics are voicing the convictions of many Americans who have had an opportunity to study comparative journalism as the result of their travel about the world or owing to their wide reading of periodical literature. They are forced to speak adversely, but one of love rather than hate. The very intensity of their conviction as to the high rank of the journalist as a social factor makes them the keener in their insistence that he follow his calling in a serious and unworldly mood.

As the result of conjunction of criticism from within and without the calling, the outlook for bettered conditions is brighter than it has been for some years. Publicists and social reformers, educators and parents, are alive to the issue as at no previous time. Readers favorable to sane, clear, more independent ideals of reporting and editing exist on every hand and await the appearance of journals that recognize this fact.

PRESS COMMENT.

Rockford Register-Gazette: Now that it has got down to a contest between the president on one side and the lumber and paper trusts on the other the country does not have to take long to find out where to line up.

of the Chicago Stock Exchange was formerly a horse-shoer. Another illustration of the demoralizing effect of living in Chicago.

Paragraph by Paragraph.
Racine Times: President Taft is going West as far as Utah, in September. He probably expects to get a month off after the senate has finished the first paragraph of the reforestation bill, and before it takes up the second.

Something Wrong.
Oshkosh Northwestern: It is to be noticed that the vote of Senator Lorimer really decided the important point of federal control made part of the direct election bill as passed by the senate, just the same as the vote of Lorimer recently decided the action taken with relation to ship subsidy. Yet in the opinion of many citizens of this nation Senator Lorimer really has no right to his seat, and much less to this decide important policies for the whole country.

Bloodless Revolution.
Beloit News: The United States senate has declared for the direct election of members of its own body. And yet some people have an idea that no revolution is accomplished without shedding of blood.

In Wrong Direction.
Milwaukee Free Press: If the Chicago pollen would turn from censuring the drama, songs, and moving picture shows, and get busy with the lives and labor-sungling saloons, Chicago would lose its reputation of the worst city in the country. But why wish for the millennium?

Ah, Yes! How Happy!
Milwaukee Sentinel: How happy is the June bride! How it thrills her tender soul to be made the butt of a gang of village jesters; to be half drowned in a shower of rice and wallop on the back of her swan-like neck by a flock of old shoes. Ah, yes! How happy is the June bride!

CHILDREN OR CALVES?

Here is something new under the sun—fattening school children. The school authorities of Philadelphia discovered that some of the children were underfed. They came from homes where the parents leave for work early in the morning and return late in the evening, and there is not much to eat.

An experiment was made. Fifty of these children were selected, and for a month they were given three cent hot lunches, consisting of hamburger steak or Irish stew, with rice or gravy.

The result? These lean school children—poor kids—gained an average of four pounds in twenty-six days! Some, half starved, gained more, but the average was four pounds of solid flesh.

Now— I have just been noting in a farm journal a tabulation of some elaborate feeding tests of cattle and hogs. Much is said about the "balanced ration." And I remember that experiment schools are maintained and bulletins issued by the government to promote proper feeding of farm animals.

Which is all right, but— Why draw the line on famished children? Is it because cows and pigs represent money and children are mere human flesh, which has no value on the stockyards quotations?

Ask yourself. Why do we spend so many millions on battleships and rivers and harbors and conservation of forest, mine and stream and so little on the children?

Afraid we will pauperize them if we feed them?

Did we pauperize the Union Pacific when we gave it millions of acres of land? Do we pauperize the steel barons when we give them a monopoly on steel rails, or our army officers when we retire them on half pay?

How about free schoolbooks? Did we pauperize the children of the poor when we gave them—in many places—books free of cost?

The fact is we pauperize these poor children or make criminals of them when we let them go hungry. You can give a thin boy or girl one wholesome meal a day for a less sum of money than it costs to feed a fat calf.

You do not pauperize the calf by giving it something to eat. How can people of the cities where the ill nourished children of the poor are found permit such conditions? Are they hard hearted, or don't they know, or have they become used to the pitiful thing?

The day is long and trying, and heavy is the heart; and often I am sighing, while dragging weary feet. The sun is burning over me, and there is no grateful evening shade; the rows stretch out before me, that I must hoe and spade. But when the sun has wound his pathway to the west, my weary toll is ended, and evening brings me rest. Then comes the kind word spoken by loved ones at the door; then comes the sleep unbroken, until the night is o'er; then comes the tenebrous passage of restful twilight hours; then comes the mystic message of winds among the flowers. The day may treat me meanly, and rob my life of zest; but evening comes serenely, and evening brings me rest. And life is but a longer and sadder summer day; the weary heat is strong, er, and rockier the way; the watchword is "Endeavor," and till the day is done the laborer may never escape the glaring sun. And thus the harsh world grinds him against its rugged breast, till starily evening finds him and evening brings him rest.

CURIOUS BITS OF HISTORY

By A. W. MACY.

NEWSPAPERS DURING THE REVOLUTIONARY WAR.

At the outbreak of the Revolutionary war thirty-seven newspapers were being published in the Colonies. Most of them were published in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts. Of the thirty-seven, twenty-three were devoted to the cause of the patriots; seven, possibly eight, favored the English, and the balance were supposed to be neutral. Of the twenty-three patriotic papers, five went over to the loyalists in the course of the war. Thus not quite one-half of the total number supported the cause of the Revolution from start to finish. Most of the editors and proprietors whose papers deserted the patriots' cause fled across the border into Canada toward the close of the war, and forgot to come back.

REV. ELMER L. WILLIAMS.

PASTOR HEADS GAMBLING RAID.

Chicago, Ill.—Disguised as a tramp, Rev. Elmer L. Williams, pastor of the Grace Methodist Episcopal church, LaSalle avenue and Locust street, entered a gambling house in the basement at 626 North Clark street. After watching the inmates shoot "craps" and play poker he notified the police. As a result detectives and uniformed policemen swooped down on the place and raided it, arresting twenty-nine persons.

The twenty-nine were arrested after two iron-barred doors had been smashed with axes. Thomas Moffatt was booked as keeper.

Disguised as a tramp and accompanied by a young man who had lost heavily at the tables, Rev. Williams entered the place. His own story of the incident follows:

"I had no trouble in passing the look-out. In the room I saw a crowd of men gambling. I did not gamble myself, because I do not know how. 'I remained in the gambling den more than an hour. No one recognized me. 'Your turn at the dice,' said the man who was in charge of the game. I said that I was just watching the game and would probably shoot the dice the next time around."

TWENTY-FIVE CENTS GIVEN AWAY

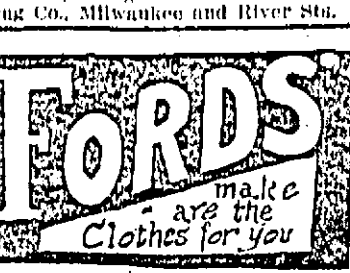

We are going to give away twenty-five cents, not once, but a hundred times, twenty-five cents to the first hundred persons that return this ad to our store. There are on the market a good many Kidney Pills. Mr. Fleming, our graduate Pharmacist, is familiar with the formula of them all. There is no better pill than our Backer Kidney Pills of which we have sold hundreds of boxes. They are composed of Buchu, Juniper, Uva Ursi, Couch Grass, Asparagus Extract. Ask any doctor to write you a better formula, if he can, for irritation of the urethra or bladder, backache, swollen joints, stone in the bladder, offensive or colored urine. Most eozema eruptions are from the kidneys. One box will cure most of these troubles. The price is 50c. Now, if you have never used the Backer Kidney Pills, sign your name on the back of this ad and bring it to our store before June 23rd, with 25c, and get a 50c box. VISCOUNTESS MALDSTONE.

COUNTLESS LOYAL TO COUNTRY WOMEN.

Viscountess Maldstone, formerly Miss Margaretta Drexel of New York, London, Eng.—If the current rumor is to be believed, Countess Maldstone, formerly Miss Margaretta Drexel of New York, will not attend the Court social functions during the coronation festivities. This is because of the fact that several of the American colony who have married English royals have been snubbed by the Court, and Countess Maldstone feels that in justice to her American friends she should remain away.

SCHOOL YEAR ENDS WITH GRADUATION

WEEK'S PROGRAM HOWEVER
CONCLUDES WITH ALUMNI
BANQUET TOMORROW
EVENING.

EXERCISES TONIGHT

At High School Mark End of the Present Graduating Class' Connection With School.

School days will be over for the class of 1911 of the Janesville high school this evening when President Packmaster will present the diploma that mean so much to the graduates.
The exercises will be held in the auditorium of the high school building and will be most interesting.

The past week has been full of interest. The class play on Tuesday, the wonderful June Pageant in the Court House park Wednesday, tonight the graduating exercises at the high school, and Friday evening the alumni banquet when the members of the graduating class will be admitted and welcomed to membership of

Dr. Buckmaster
Class Song: "Windy Evans"
Tomorrow evening at seven o'clock the annual Alumni banquet will take place at the local high school auditorium. To this banquet will gather the graduates of the past years. The friendships formed back in the old school days will be renewed again.
The graduates of this year's class will also be taken into the ranks of the Alumni.

The report will be prepared under the direction of Miss Coleman, instructor of domestic science at the local high school, by some of the alumni girls who graduated from the domestic science course. As has been the custom in past years, nine couples from the Junior class will serve the supper. They are Doris Amerpohl and Stanley Metcalf, Alta Filbeck and Fred
Cummings, Marion Volrick and Doro
Kelly, Marion Jenkins and Charles
Noyes, Grace Murphy and Bo Kelly,
Florence Gray and Glenn McArthur, Johanna Hayes and Donald Korn, Margaret Dwyer and George

SIMPSON HEIRS WIN IN COUNTY COURT

Interesting Will Case Involving Time of Death of Mrs. Simpson and Charles Eumson Finally Settled.

Final settlement was made this afternoon in the county court in the matter of the distribution of the property of the late Mrs. F. H. Simpson, who died from the effects of gas escaping from an open jet in her kitchen range in the fall of 1909, which at the same time caused the death of the benefactor of the will, Charles Eumson. Following the taking of testimony it was decided by Judge Sale that death came to Eumson first and that as a result, the property, by a lapse of device, would go to the Simpson heirs.

Upon the death of Mrs. Simpson's husband the property was so fixed that upon the death of Mrs. Simpson, it would fall to Eumson, a friend of the family, who has stayed at the house for a number of years. In the autumn of 1909, two of the neighbors, after noticing that there was an odor of gas about the house for two days, entered the rear of the house and upon going into the kitchen found Eumson sitting at the table dead and one of the jets of the gas stove turned on.
There was a kettle of water over the burner, and the room was filled with the deadly fumes.

Upon going into the sitting room and then into the bedroom on the first floor, Mrs. Simpson was found dead in her bed two doors intervening between her room and the kitchen and both being closed. It was said that both had been dead for several days. All matters pertaining to the estate were settled during the past two years and no trouble arose until it came time for the distribution of the property among the heirs.

At this time the question as to whether Eumson or Mrs. Simpson was the first to succumb to the gas fumes came up and the testimony taken in court this afternoon was to settle that point. Blue prints of the plan of the house were produced as evidence by the representatives of the Simpson heirs to show that it would be impossible in view of the places where the bodies were found, to prove that Mrs.
Simpson was the first to succumb, as Eumson was in the room with the stove and that two doors intervened between the kitchen and the bed room of the woman. This and the testimony of the people who discovered the bodies after this afternoon caused the judge to decide in favor of the Simpson
heirs.

MENACE TO CAPITAL REPORTED TODAY

GENERAL VERA WITH FORCE OF 4,000 THREATENS TO ATTACK MEXICO CITY.

SENDS MADERO ULTIMATUM

Rebel Officer Commanding Flower of Insurrectos Army Demands That the Military Commander of the District Shall Be Charged at Once.

Mexico City, June 15.—Francisco I. Madero has received an ultimatum from Gen. Jose Vera, at the head of 4,000 rebel soldiers, the flower of the insurrectos' army that if the military changed within twenty-four hours, he will begin an attack on Mexico City.

Madero Parleys for Time. Madero's agents here have sent back word to Vera parleying for time. Vera is reported to be a bandit like Zapala, but has a strong force of the best, most daring of all Madero's men. He cannot take this city but might begin a hot battle on the outskirts.

Madero named Emilio Sobrino to command all the forces in the state of Mexico. Now Vera has risen against Sobrino.

Vera Sends Second Demand.

Vera moved his entire force to Tlaxtepec, a suburb eight miles from the heart of this city, last night and sent a second demand that the government change Madero's chief of this military zone, or he would attack the city tonight.

The army here is held close in barracks with field and rapid fire guns loaded at the corners of the barracks. Riflemen are stationed on the cathedral towers and double patrols have been established in the streets.

Secret messages were sent by the minister of war to General Miranda, commanding the rebel army at Cuernavaca. An officer of the army declares the messages were calls for aid.

Held for Violating Neutrality Laws.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 15.—On indictments returned against them by the federal grand jury charging violation of the neutrality laws, Anselmo Figueroa, editor of the Mexican Socialist newspaper, Regeneracion, Ricardo Flores Magón, president of the Mexican revolutionary junta in Los Angeles, and Libardo Rivera, secretary of the same organization, were arrested by United States Marshal Youngworth. Enrique Magón, a brother of the junta leader, was also arrested and charged with resisting an officer. The arrests are the result of a complaint made by Mexico to the state department in Washington. A number of other persons were indicted and additional arrests will be made soon in other Pacific coast cities.

PORTUGAL AWAITS AN ATTACK

Republican Troops Line Border to Keep Royalists Out.

Lisbon, June 15.—The provisional government learned on Sunday that the monarchists, who have renewed their activities to overthrow the republic, were approaching Chaves in great numbers. The republican troops were immediately concentrated there. Captain Concelos and Commander Coutinho, the royalist leaders, thereupon moved their forces from the hills of Serra da Leizora into the territory near Braga, which is the weakest point along the frontier. The government hastily dispatched troops to Porto da Baren and Montalegre.

The general opinion is that the royalists will not attempt to force their way into Portugal.

Captain Concelos and several hundred well armed men and other groups of monarchists have been observed all along the frontier. The government has concentrated troops in the territory opposite the royalist positions and posted artillery in the hills. Confidence is felt that any attack of the invaders will be easily repulsed.

CONDEMN TWO-DECK STOCK CAR

Illinois Humane Society Urges Abolition for Shipping Calves.

Alton, Ill., June 15.—The Illinois Humane society adopted resolutions favoring the abolition of the two-deck stock car for shipping live calves, and also recommended that in every county homes be provided where children of indigent parents may be taken temporarily until the parents are able to take care of them without the title to the children passing from the parents. Jails as a means of enforcing humane laws were condemned, the society taking the stand that it must not be an example in being kind before requiring it of others.

CHARLIE TAFT SPRAINS WRIST.

President's Son Is Injured During Pole Vaulting at School.

Watertown, Conn., June 15.—Master Charlie Taft, son of the president, will be unable to go to the Taft school dance tonight because of a sprained wrist. He was vaulting on the damp athletic field when the pole slipped and he fell on his right arm. Young Taft will go to Washington Saturday.

Women Given Vote in Parish.

Waterbury, Conn., June 15.—Women will be permitted to vote in parish meetings, but not to hold office, by decision of the Episcopal state convention, presided over by Bishop Brewster.

Orange and Lemon Trees. An average orange tree produces 20,000 oranges and an average lemon tree 8,000 lemons.

DEMOCRATS DECIDE TO WORK ONLY ON TARIFF

House Caucus Votes Against Extending Program for Extra Session and Turns Down Other Bills.

Washington, June 15.—That there is to be no enlargement of the Democratic legislative program was decided upon by the Democrats in caucus. It was decided the wisest political course is to keep the attention of the country focused on the pending legislation and tariff revision bills soon to come from the committee on ways and means. There was a large attendance and it became evident early there was much opposition to additional matters of legislation.

Among matters which the caucus turned down were the bill providing for a change from three to five years as the enlistment period in the army and other reorganization bills introduced by Chairman Hay of the committee on military affairs. Bills which the committee on naval affairs wishes to have pressed at this session and other minor bills and emergency measures were denied consideration.

"The action of the caucus simply means that we will go ahead with the tariff program as originally outlined at the opening of the session," said Democratic leader Underwood. After the caucus several members declared there might be another caucus later to determine upon a short extra program, but the party leaders expressed the opinion that nothing further would be added to the legislative program.

EDUCATOR IS OPERATED UPON

Cancer Removed From President L. B. Fisher of Lombard College.

Rochester, Minn., June 15.—Dr. L. B. Fisher, president of Lombard college of Galesburg, Ill., submitted to a surgical operation for the removal of a cancer at St. Mary's hospital. While the operation was considered quite serious, the findings of the surgeons were such that there is strong hope for the ultimate recovery of the patient.

Iowa Bankers at Mason City.

Mason City, Ia., June 15.—President John McHugh of Sioux City today called to order the twenty-fifth convention of the Iowa bankers' association in this city. C. H. McMiller welcomed the visitors and after a response by George S. Parker of Sioux City, Mr. McHugh delivered his annual address. In the afternoon Prof. J. Lawrence Laughlin of the University of Chicago spoke on "Progress in Monetary and Banking Legislation." The convention will adjourn tomorrow in time for a trip to Clear Lake.

COMPERS CRITICISES DECISION

Labor Leader Says Supreme Court Avoided Real Issue in His Case.

Washington, June 15.—Samuel Compers, president of the American Federation of Labor, declared the Supreme court of the United States, in its recent decision quashing the full sentences of himself, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison in contempt proceedings, avoided the issue and decided the cases against the labor leaders in academic fashion. Mr. Compers was one of the speakers at a banquet in honor of the executive council of the federation and of the fifteen members of the house of representatives who carry union cards. The speaker said if the rule of reason applies when vast wealth is concerned it should not be omitted when human activity is the question at issue.

REGULATE DIVIDENDS IS PLAN.

Grosscup Proposes New Trust Remedy at Iowa Convention.

Iowa City, Ia., June 15.—Judge Peter S. Grosscup of the United States circuit court of appeals of Chicago declared the Sherman anti-trust law a failure, in an address before the thirty-first annual convention of the Iowa bar at Des Moines. He said that the act, as now interpreted was an ineffective remedy in the just complaint of the ordinary man against monopolies. He declared, further, it should be replaced by a law "squared to the fact." His proposed plan was that state and federal governments should regulate dividends, the nature of business determining whether state or national regulation should be applied. He also declared in favor of federal charters for big corporations.

BERGER ATTACKS ALL TARIFFS.

Socialist Says Labor Cannot Withstand Change in Tax System.

Washington, June 15.—Representative Victor L. Berger of Wisconsin, socialist, spoke against the Underwood wool tariff bill. He denounced all forms of tariff as inimical to labor, but did not advocate the immediate abolition of the taxing system because, he said, labor could not withstand the sudden change. "The protective tariff was never designed to protect the working man," said Mr. Berger; "that was all afterthought and because the working men had votes."

He said the only protection labor enjoyed was to be found in the trades unions and in the utilization of the boycott and strike methods.

Democrats Eliminate Recall.

Albany, N. Y., June 15.—That the Democratic legislature of New York state is not enthusiastic over the initiative and recall is indicated by its action in directing those provisions from the proposed new charter for the commission form of government for the city of Buffalo.

Extension of Trees' Roots. As a general rule roots extend on each side of a tree to a distance equal the height of the tree itself.

MRS. FORD TELLS OF BIG THEFT.

Says Cooke Admitted Taking Money From Big Four Road.

Cincinnati, June 15.—When Charles L. Warriner, defaulter to the extent of $612,000, stepped from the court scene in the trial of Edward B. Cooke here back to his cell there entered Jeannette Stewart Ford, once a veritable Du Barry, now a pathetic pained invalid. With quivering voice she admitted having hidden $22,000 in money for Cooke and then declared he had told her that it had been taken from the Big Four railway.

She said she had received $1,200 or $1,500 of this amount for herself and then, when shown a check signed by her and endorsed by Cooke for $1,000, said that the former bookkeeper of the railroad had forced her to return that amount to him.

In all essential details her testimony fitted in and supplemented that of Warriner. Warriner had related that when he discovered that Cooke was short the defendant had promised to return some of the money and had subsequently visited Warriner's home and given him $2,000.

AGED WOMAN BURNS TO DEATH.

Her Daughter Probably Fatally Injured When Clothing Becomes Ignited.

Chicago, June 15.—While horror-stricken neighbors watched them writhing in agony, unable to aid, yet only a few feet away, Mrs. Mary Brackel, sixty-three years old, was burned to death and her daughter, Mrs. Evelyn Brackel, a well-known artist and an instructor at the Art Institute, was probably fatally burned at their home. While preparing supper Mrs. Brackel's clothes became ignited, and while attempting to aid her mother the lace-trimmed gown Mrs. Brackel wore took fire. The screams of the women attracted the attention of a dozen women living near by, who rushed to their aid.

The doors of the porch and to the flat were locked, however, and it was minutes before they could be broken down and the suffering women assisted.

BREAD TRUST OF $15,500,000.

Twenty-One Bakers Combine Under New York Laws.

New York, June 15.—The General Baking company, a combination of 21 leading bakers of the country, has been incorporated under the laws of the state of New York, with a capitalization of $7,000,000 preferred, $5,000,000 common stock, and $3,500,000 first mortgage bonds. The issue has been underwritten and will be sold by a syndicate under the management of Harvey Fish & Son. In order to escape any violation of the anti-trust law there will be no attempt to establish a monopoly.

The real purpose of the company, according to the prospectus issued, will be to effect economy in the buying of materials and the use of scientific manufacturing methods.

F. G. JONES PLEADS NOT GUILTY

Michigan Man Arraigned on Forgery Charge in Grand Rapids.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 15.—Frank G. Jones, the accused president of the American Electric Fuse company of Muskegon, was arraigned on a charge of forgery in the superior court and entered a plea of not guilty. Judge Stuart continued the old hall set by Judge Ness in police court—$12,000. Jones said for the present he would make no effort to seek bail.

Home Missions the Topic.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15.—The principal sessions of the meeting of the American Baptist Home Mission society are being held today in Grace Temple church. This morning special attention was given to educational work among colored people, addresses being made by Dr. George Sale and others. In the afternoon the topic was the work among the Spanish speaking people of Mexico, Cuba, Porto Rico and Salvador. Tonight the speakers will be Dr. H. G. Beaman of Waterloo, Ia., Dr. C. A. Eaton of New York and Fred A. Wells of Chicago, the president of the society.

BLOW DEALT "WHITE SLAVERS"

Court Decides That Injured Wife's Testimony Is Admissible.

Philadelphia, June 15.—In an alleged "white slave" case Judge McPherson in the United States district court ruled that the testimony of a wife or common law wife is admissible in "white slave" prosecutions where it is shown that the husband directly injured the woman. Assistant United States District Attorney Brinton said that the ruling is most important, and will have a vital bearing on all similar prosecutions.

Advertising Clubs Convene.

Grand Rapids, Mich., June 15.—Talks on practical topics and entertainment features will divide the time of the members of the central division of the Associated Ad Clubs of America, who began their annual convention here this morning. The speakers today were Ed Hurton of Indianapolis and L. H. Martin of Cincinnati, and after listening to them the visitors went out to Ramona Park and Manhattan. The closing feature will be the big banquet tomorrow night, at which the speakers will be Melville Stone, general manager of the Associated Press; Governor Osborn and Elbert Hubbard.

Breeding Ground for Birds.

The volcanic islands known as the Bogosol Islands of the Aleutian archipelago, Alaska, have been ordered set apart and reserved for the use of the department of agriculture as a preserve and breeding ground for native birds.

POPULAR COUPLE ARE WEDDED AT BRODHEAD

Miss Maud Terry Becomes Bride of Lawrence Johnson of Whitewater —Wedding Trip to Chicago and East.

[Special to the Gazette.]

Brodhead, June 15.—At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Terry, at half past twelve o'clock on Wednesday, June 14, occurred the marriage of Miss Maud Lenore Terry of this city and Lawrence Johnson of Whitewater, Wis. Keicher of the Episcopal church at Whitewater performed the ceremony. A four course luncheon followed the ceremony and later in the afternoon the bridal party took their departure in an auto for Clinton, where they took a train for Chicago, going from that city in a day or two on a wedding trip to Boston, Mass.

The bride is one of Brodhead's first young ladies, highly respected and beloved by a large circle of friends, who regret that her home is to be elsewhere. Mr. Johnson is a young gentleman of good business ability and staunch integrity, having but recently accepted a responsible position in the office of the Studebaker Manufacturing company at South Bend, Indiana, where he and his bride will soon take up their residence. The good wishes of many friends follow them.

Miss Pearl Atwood spent Tuesday with Janesville friends.

Mrs. W. H. E. Hyde and Mr. and Mrs. London Blackburn and the children, went on Wednesday to Dunbar to visit friends for a week.

Four cans of black bass fry were received here, Wednesday, from the state hatchery at Madison, and put into Sugar river.

Mrs. H. C. Broughton went to Monroe on Wednesday to visit relatives. She was accompanied by her little niece, Florence Gifford, who had been visiting her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Roderick.

Miss Belle Pleck came home from the University of Wisconsin, Wednesday, to attend the wedding of her cousin, Miss Maud Terry, to Lawrence Johnson of Whitewater.

Miss Edith Koller of Janesville was home between trains on Wednesday. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Levee, who have been spending some time with Brodhead friends, returned Wednesday to their home in Ramona, South Dakota. Mrs. Oscar Norman has been entertaining here, Mrs. Booth, and sisters, Laura, Dorothy, Ethel, Edna and Kathryn, of Milton Junction. All but Laura returned home on Wednesday.

Word received here announces a son was born to Mr. and Mrs. George Barber at Tyndall, South Dakota, on Monday, June 12.

Mrs. Frank Crocker of Nellville was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Foster, Wednesday night.

FRENCH WINE GROWERS WIN

Government Declines to Abandon Its Delimitation Plan.

Paris, June 15.—The cabinet at a meeting held for the purpose of considering the crisis arising out of the champagne controversy, practically decided to abandon the government's plan for the delimitation of the champagne region. Instead of the delimitation measure a bill will be introduced providing that the courts shall be given the most extended powers to repress the fraudulent designation of wines.

Arrives With Cholera Patients.

New York, June 15.—The Italian line steamship Europa, from Genoa and Naples, dropped anchor off quarantine and reported that a stevedore passenger, Agostino Tavolla, was suffering from cholera. The patient is on his way to recovery. The Europa, with its 77 cabin passengers and 363 in the steerage, will be held at quarantine.

Counting Our Hours.

"To count no hours but unclouded ones," and forget all others, is one way, we are told, of scaling the heights of happiness. To those who know but little of the darker sides of life and who are as yet inclined to value their blessings more as rights than as privileges, the advice seems easy to follow, and their only wonder is that it is not more generally heeded. There are many persons, however, to whom an unclouded hour marks some great event in life, and to whom those hours come so seldom that to count them in the final results would be to make but a sorry showing. The hours that pass so slowly for some, weighted as they are with cares and responsibilities and sorrow, rush by with amazing speed for others. The hours of all the days of all the years bring their own messages to each one of us. At no time have they ever brought the same message to all. They may duplicate their tidings to many persons, whether those tidings be of joy or sorrow, but never at any one time do the hours mean the same thing for all of God's people. Either there is joy for thousands and sorrow for millions, or sorrow for thousands and joy for millions, while to countless others the same periods of time are of no special import.

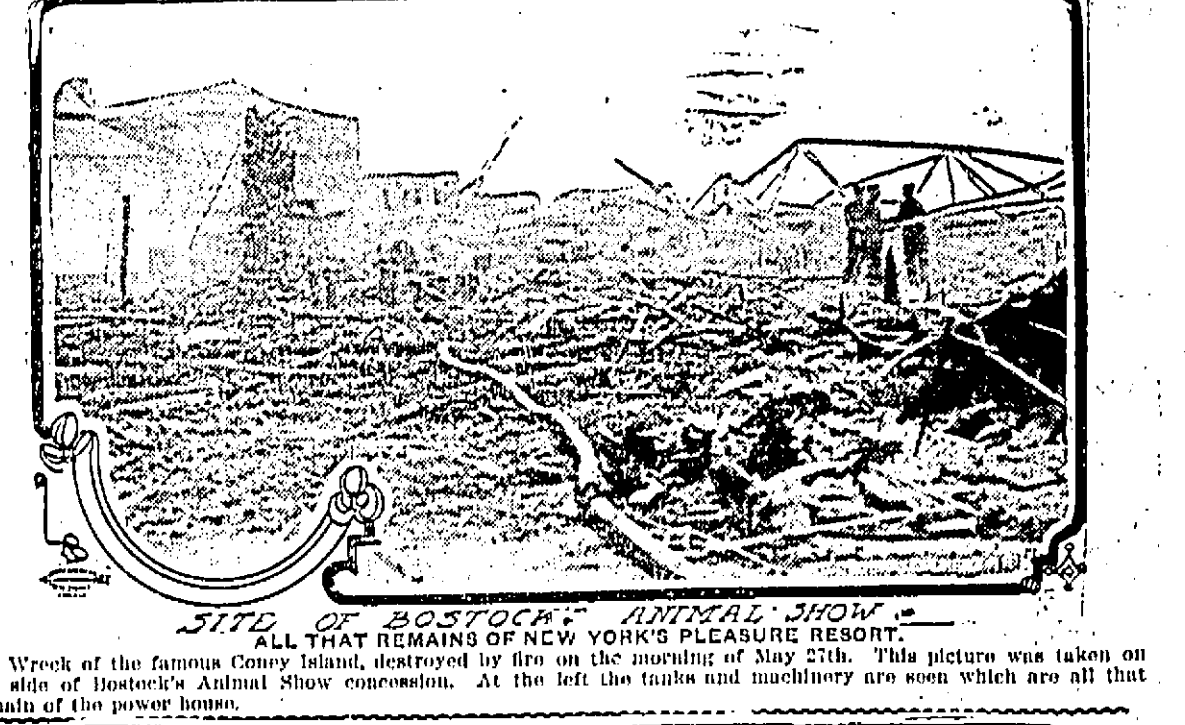

"Homing Swallows."

A Belgian pigeon trainer has been experimenting with swallows in the place of homing pigeons, and says they have the advantage of great speed.

ON 7450 MILE RACE WITH DEATH. Diagram showing the trip 1/2 of the way around the world from Los Angeles to Rome by which Dr. Choate is rushing to the sick bed of a patient.

New York City, May 24.—Hailing today on the Mauretania, was Dr. Choate, who is racing against death from Los Angeles, California, to Rome, Italy. The trip will take him 1/2 of the way around the world. He expects to cover the distance, 7450 miles, in 15 days. The hurry call was sent from Rome by cable, one week ago by Mrs. A. S. Brown, a wealthy Los Angeles woman. Dr. Choate immediately left for New York and arrived here a day before yesterday. If the Mauretania makes her trip on schedule time, he will be in London in five days and expects to be in Rome well within the 15 day limit she has set for the trip.

Little Bed-Time Tales By EDITH HAVENS

Fairy Shawls

DID you ever notice those delicate little shawls of silver doting the cool green lawn in the early morning? Well, there is a beautiful story to tell of those very sweet shawls, a story I am sure you will be delighted to hear. It is a story of duty little fairies who, after nightfall, at a time when all you little people are snugly tucked in bed, come and dance about the land to celebrate the coming of a beautiful day of sunshine. The fairies never dance the night before a storm. You see, there is a sky fairy who knows the weather fairy very well, and every night this sky fairy finds out from the weather fairy whether the day is to be fair or stormy on the morrow. If it is to be fair, away scoots the sky fairy to spread the news among his friends. Just where all these fairies live nobody knows, but when they learn of the news they scamper about with joy, for such news means a dance when and the moon, peeping up over the hill-top, calls softly: "Come, little fairies, come, little fairies." And then there is a rustle from behind rocks and trees and out across the fields there skip and trip thousands of these little fairy people. And such beautiful little people they are. They are no taller than your hand and their dainty clothing is as light as the tiny south breeze.

And then the sun sinks off to bed melt away into tiny pools of silver dew.

In joyful glee they join hands and whirl about on the lawn, their tiny web shawls glittering in the moonlight like brilliant diamonds.

All night long they dance and sing, and then, just at the time when the first light of morning appears, they dart away to their homes leaving behind them on the grass thousands of pretty fairy shawls.

You must get up early some morning if you wish to see them, for as the sun rises higher in the sky they gradually melt away into tiny pools of silver dew.

God Uses Pain to Refine Humanity

By DR. HAROLD FATTISON
Pastor of First Baptist Church,
St. Paul, Minn.

The problem in Job's time was, why do the righteous suffer? but the problem in our day has broadened to why should there be any suffering at all? As we have stood near the bedside of some dear one whom we could not bear to see suffer, we have wondered how God could stand it. Personally, I do not believe that God is a being that goes about shattering our homes or breaking our hearts. It is thought that he permits such things, but it may well be said that God cannot still be good and make exceptions, here and there in the workings of the great laws of the universe, that were to put irregularities in the place of uniformity, to introduce anarchy and make confusion worse confounded. We are to remember, too, that we are inclined to mistake the part for the whole, and in the matter of pain our standard of measurement is apt to be false. The actual amount of pain in the world is only as great as that borne by any single human being.

A partial answer to this problem is found in the present uses of pain. Pain may be a punishment, but not always, for pain would seem quite as often a punishment for weakness as for wickedness. Great pain purifies. As the psalmist says: "It was good for me that I was afflicted."

Pain is power. Pain stimulates us to do our best. It is a good and spur that discovers our best powers. We often say we learn by experience, but if we stop to think of it the experiences to which we refer are mostly painful. It takes fire to temper steel and the sword blade never yet took and held its temper without it. A California apple is large and beautiful, but tasteless like cork; it needs the frost of New England to ripen the Baldwin and pippin. We none of us want to live over again the difficult crises of our lives, yet not one of us would be willing to part with the experiences those crises gave us. Great pain warns us. A wounded dog holds up its foot and so keeps out the dirt. Pain told it to do that.

The cross of Christ sheds the strongest light on the mysteries of pain. Jesus never seemed to be perplexed at the existence of pain. How great a part of his ministry consisted in banishing pain, yet Jesus and Christianity have done much to increase the pain of the world. Gethsemane and Calvary show us that in our lives as well as his the best and truest in human life comes from pain. The cross is the appeal of suffering.

The vicarious suffering of Christ is said to conflict with our sense of justice. It does not do it. We interpret it by the old view of theology, but rightly viewed it is the climax and complete expiration of the forces to which we owe entire evolution of our race. We must not confuse vicarious suffering with vicarious punishment. When life is seen at its deepest and truest it seems as though there were nothing else but vicarious suffering through which the world was saved.

Pain is incidental. It does not last. Pain is unnatural. Jesus came to heal and banish it. Pain is not eternal, and "God shall wipe all tears from their eyes and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crime, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away."

New Opportunities.

Today we all face new opportunities for growth in grace and in the knowledge of Christ. It is only the man of spiritual pride that will not feel that the hours offer to him a new spiritual chance—a chance to be more like Christ when the sun goes down upon his newly dawned day. It must be that we fail to see the significance of this line of meridian so freely offered to all men. Each morning comes with this invitation: "Ho, every one that thirsteth, come ye to the waters." This is simply the call to accept the divine meridian of character. Every morning is alive with that opportunity. If we do not see these meridian it is because we are spiritually blind. What unconquered regions of kindness lie before our soul! What unexplored fields of divine benevolence! What untrodden paths of consecration! These are the possibilities that God sets before us now. Tomorrow morning should see us setting out on the stubborn and courageous march toward our ideal. The height and breadth and depth of the love of God in Christ give us an ambition equal to the efforts of an eternity.

Pain.

Pain is actually a mental perception of nerve pressure, and your perception of it may be altogether dispelled by some sudden demand on your attention, and you may forget all about the pain—in other words, it is often true that pain depends on the amount of attention you are willing to give to the nerve pressure record.

TELLING HIS FORTUNE

AMATEUR SEERESS PICTURES
MR. WINSOMB'S FUTURE WIFE.

Description Does Not Tally With One Given Him a Week Ago by Another Lady and Coinesse Results.

"Have you ever had your fortune told, Mr. Winscomb?"

"Yes. A lady told my fortune only about a week ago."

"What did she tell you was going to happen to you?"

"O, yes, really, I'm awfully interested. You know I tell fortunes—a little myself. Suppose I tell yours and then you can decide whether there's anything in it or not."

"Very well. Go ahead."

"I shall have to look at your hand."

"Here it is."

"Well, let me see. O, you have an awfully interesting hand. You are going to live a long, long time."

"She told me the same thing."

"And you are going to be—not terribly rich—but fairly wealthy."

"The same thing she told me."

"You have a very strong will. Did the other lady tell you that?"

"Yes."

"And you possess artistic tastes and would have been a successful actor if you had gone upon the stage."

"You're getting it just about as she did."

"And—and—yes—you are going to be married within a year."

"Exactly what she told me. Can you see anything about the lady's personal appearance?"

"She will be about medium size, with brownish hair and beautiful hazel eyes, and—"

"Go on, please."

"O, I—I—don't believe I can see any more."

"Please look again. Do I know her now?"

"Yes. You have known her for several weeks."

"Am I near her at present?"

"Yes—I think so."

"Very near her?"

"Why—what do you mean by very near?"

"It's curious. My fortune as you tell it and as the other lady told it, is the same up to a certain point. You see, she is rather tall and has blue eyes and lightish hair, so her description of my future wife was not the same as you describe her. And there's another thing. She told me I had known my future wife several months. You say several weeks. You see I've known the other lady a good deal longer than I've known you. By the way, what beautiful hazel eyes you have. They are hazel, aren't they?"

"Do you believe in fortune-telling?"

"I'm afraid I'm a little skeptical still."

"Dear me, how late it's getting."

"You don't call ten o'clock late, do you?"

"Sometimes. But I don't suppose I should if I were tall and had blue eyes and lightish hair."

When she had slammed the door behind him she switched off the porch light, earnestly hoping he might fall down the front steps and break his collar-bone.

Realized His New Dignity.

John Barrett, director of the bureau of American republics, once spent a year in Washington trying to break into the consular service. He had no other employment during that time and toward the end of his tedious wait he got pretty short of money and was obliged to eat at the cheapest restaurants in town.

One afternoon he was preparing to break a few crackers into five cents' worth of milk at one of those wait-on-yourself restaurants, when a friend came in.

"Congratulations," said the friend. "What for?" asked Barrett.

"Why, haven't you heard? You've been appointed consul to Siam!"

Without saying a word, Barrett pushed aside his crackers and milk, arose and began to adjust his necktie and coat collar.

"Well, you're not going to let the appointment take your appetite, are you?" asked the friend.

"Certainly not," replied Barrett, "but it would hardly be proper for the consul to Siam to eat in a place like this. I'm going over to the Willard."

Small Estates in Jamaica.

In Jamaica 75 per cent. of the 155,051 landed properties are valued at less than $200 each. Nearly all of these small holdings are owned by negroes who live chiefly on salt fish and on fruits and vegetables, especially yams grown by themselves.

Being able to live in this manner with little exertion these peasant proprietors are averse to entering into contracts to labor by the year or even by the month. Hence, in spite of the fact that 95 per cent. of the 862,000 inhabitants of Jamaica are negroes (including mulattoes), it is necessary to employ East Indian coolies on the larger sugar and banana plantations, on which there must be a certain proportion of laborers who may be relied upon for steady work at all times.

Clear Cut

Inscriptions

One of the very important points about a good monument is the Lettering and Inscription. This, we all know, is the concise record of the life-period of the ones at rest. LETTER FORMS that stand out distinctly against a white background are notable characteristics on the monuments we produce.

These artistic and decorative features are unsurpassed anywhere in this section of the country, being worked out in perfect symmetry with the monument as a whole.

You are welcome to come to our works any time to inspect and make your selection. Thorough guarantee throughout.

Do You Want to Buy a Farm at from $32.50 to $40 per acre?

I have listed with me for sale a number of excellent farms at the above prices. They are not in Rock County, however, but in a country where the soil is equally good, where there are good roads, good schools, churches, where the climate is about the same as here, but where there is a greater rainfall. The trouble has been that if anything there was too much rain, so the county and state have put in a perfect drainage system.

This land is located in the rich and delightful RED RIVER VALLEY, POLK COUNTY, MINNESOTA.

Here are a few of the farms:

No. 10. 320 acres, all under cultivation. 6 miles from town. New barn and granary combined. Soil rich loam with clay sub-soil. Price $32.50 per acre.

No. 11. 260 acres, 4 miles from town. Half mile from school. Five room dwelling with cellar. Large granary with windmill and feed grinder attached. Barn 42x70 ft., capacity for 75 head of stock, mow room for 50 tons of hay. Fine flowing well. Good grove. Building good as new. 3 miles of fence. All under cultivation. Soil black loam with clay sub-soil. A very fine farm and an ideal home. Price $40.00 per acre.

No. 12. 180 acres, 120 acres under cultivation, balance fine level prairie. Corners with No. 11. Price $32.50 per acre.

No. 13. 280 acres, 4 miles from good town. 1 mile from school. Good ten-room house, barn with capacity for 40 head of stock and 25 tons hay. Good large granary with windmill and feed grinder attached. Flowing well, good grove, etc. Soil black loam with clay sub-soil. All under cultivation except 25 acres pasture. An ideal home. Price $40.00 per acre.

See me for other farms listed with me and for all information. I guarantee that this land is exactly as represented. If you will go to see it and find it not as represented, I will refund all railroad fare both ways.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON.

IF WE could isolate excessively nervous people as we do scarlet fever or diphtheria or small-pox patients, we should have a happier and more efficient world.

That is a conclusion to which growing realization of the contagion of nerves has driven me.

There is a widow in our town who earns her living by "accommodating." This woman has the most nervous energy of any person I ever knew. She simply nips from one task to another and is never happy unless she is rushing. Unkind rumor has it that her temperamental had something to do with the untimely death of her late husband, but I don't know about that. Recently she was recommended to a friend of mine whose broken health made it imperative that she have some trustworthy and capable person to help her about her house. Apparently Mrs. H. was just the person. Actually my friend endured her just a week.

"If I should live with that woman a month I'd be in the hospital," she explained to me later. "I never was more tired in my life than at the end of the week she was here. Yes, she did all the housework and more, but honestly it made me more tired to have her in the house with me than it would to do everything myself. Why it works me up just to be in the room with her. I think she actually radiates nerves. You know I'm a good sleeper usually, but she had me so worked up that I woke up at half past four or five all the time she was with me. I know she thinks I'm ungrateful for all the work she did, but I simply couldn't stand it another day."

That's one example of the contagion of nerves. Here's another: A lively stable keeper just yesterday, was howling the fact to me that his best middle horse had been hurt in a runaway.

"And that horse for ten years and let him to all kinds of people—men, women and children—and he never ran away before. And do you know what the trouble was, Miss Cameron? It wasn't that the driver didn't know how to just because he was so dandrified. He's taken dozens of lessons. It was nervous that he worked that horse all up."

Stally, the little stenographer lady, also had an unconscious contribution to make to this subject. She came home the other night completely tired out. "Tired?" said she in answer to our sympathetic queries. "Not anything so mild as that. Just half dead. You see Mr. A. dictated to me two hours steady this afternoon. No, that's not a terribly long time, but didn't I ever tell you about him? Why he is the terror of the office. We'd rather take any other man's dictation all the morning than his for an hour. No, he doesn't dictate so terribly fast. It's just that he's so horribly nervous and keyed up, and in a hurry inside that he makes everybody he talks to feel nervous and on a tension. Some of the girls have hysterics when he gets through dictating to them. Of course I don't do that, but I always make four times as many mistakes with him as I do with anyone else, and I'm limp as a rag when he gets through."

But the best example of the contagion of nerves, it seems to me, is in regard to the telephone. When the telephone rings very quickly, I am pretty sure one of two things is true. Either some chronically nervous, impatient person is calling, or someone made nervous and impatient by delay or difficulty in getting me. If on answering the telephone I find the first isn't the case, I always ask about the second, and in nine cases out of ten, find my supposition correct.

Try this some day. You'll find it an interesting experiment and I'm sure you'll be convinced, if you aren't already, of the deadly contagion of nerves.

PRIZES AWARDED IN THE LAST CONTEST

MRS. F. A. SPOON GIVEN FIRST PLACE BY THE JUDGES.

MANY GOOD ANSWERS

Received As How to Plan a Week's Work For a Family of Five—Answers Will Be Published.

Much interest was shown in the May contest for the women readers of the Gazette on the question, "How to plan a week's work for a family of five where the mother does her own work." In fact so many answers were received that the judges did not have time to read them all last evening and the results will be found below.

Mrs. F. A. Spoon, of 216 N. Terrace street, Jamestown, is awarded the first prize, a lady's gold filled watch, Mrs. N. E. Hild, 624 N. Washington St., the second prize, receiving a Dams Country cook book, Mrs. E. L. Blighman, Milton, Mo., No. 10, third prize, a set of kitchen knives; Mrs. Rebecca Darnall, 206 Madison street, the fourth prize, $1.50 in currency, and Mrs. Jerome Waterman, Jamestown, Ill., No. 4, the fifth prize, a set of kitchen scales.

The remainder of the letters were most excellent and it is the regret of the Feature Editor that there were not more prizes so that the writers of the other articles submitted could be rewarded for their efforts. The helpful hints that every housewife who does her own work will receive from these articles which will be published once a week until the five have been printed, should be most excellent. The article of Mrs. Spoon, which was given the first prize, is reprinted below:

"If you do not drive your work, your work will drive you."

My family of five consists of my husband, two sons, eight and ten years old, and a daughter, six years of age. My house has on the first floor, a hall, parlor (so-called), living room, dining room, large kitchen, and a laundry. The second floor has four sleeping rooms and a bath.

This time of the year I use a gas range, and coal in winter.

Most of the vegetables served are from our own garden.

We will "take time by the forelock" and begin our week's work Sunday evening after lunch, the menu of which will appear in Sunday's issue. One of the boys, the sister, and father clear the table and wash the dishes, while I sort the clothes and put them to soap for Monday's wash. My assistant (son No. 8) pumps the water and puts the machine in gear, rub-board, etc. In place for Monday's campaign. The price paid for the children's assistance is a story read by their father before they retire at eight.

Monday I arise at 5:30 o'clock. Taking the cleanest of the clothes, drop them in a boiler of water containing soap and "Nine O'clock Tea." The more soiled ones are rubbed on the board ready for the second boiler. While these are heating I prepare breakfast.

Monday, Oranges Cream of Wheat Eggs on Toast Milk for the children Cookies Coffee

While the children clear the table I take up the first boiler of clothes and put in lot number two. Now the boys fill the machine and tub and I wash the dishes with the daughter's assistance. The machine and rub-board are turned by my little men and by 8:30 the white clothes are ready to starch and hang out and the children are off to school. The colored clothes are put through the machine, rubbed as needed by hand, and rinsed in the water used for the white ones.

At eleven the clothes are out, kitchen and laundry floors cleaned. Then I fly above stairs, make the beds, which are opened by the last person to arise from each.

DINNER. Tomato Soup Cold Veal Mashed Potatoes Horseradish Gravy Lettuce with Oil Dressing Melon Pickles Bread and Butter Coffee

When the children are excused from the table they carry the dishes to the kitchen. Dinner work done at 1:30 p. m. Half an hour to read and rest before arranging my toilet for the afternoon. From 2:30 to 4:30 the time is spent in sewing. Then the clothes are washed and sprinkled—shirts, rough towels, knit garments, etc., are carefully folded and put away without ironing.

SUPPER. Potato Balls Creamed Veal Radishes Milk Bread and Butter Cake Work done at seven, and from 7 to 8 o'clock is the Gazette and "The Children's Hour." After they retire at eight I can read or sew, as fancy or necessity demands.

Tuesday. Arise at 6:00 a. m. BREAKFAST. Halved Grape Fruit Post Toasties and Cream French Toast Coffee Milk Fried Cakes

At 8:30 a. m. the house is put in order, above and below stairs, dishes are washed and potatoes pared for dinner.

I use a gasoline iron, which takes from five to eight minutes to get ready for use (would prefer gas). Most of the forenoon is spent ironing.

DINNER. Potato Soup. Sirloin Steak Potatoes Asparagus Pickles Bread Butter

Ice Tea Milk Chocolate Pudding The afternoon is spent in mending, and putting clothes away. If I chance to have a little spare time before preparing supper it may be spent reading, writing a letter or calling upon a near neighbor.

SUPPER. Potato Salad Deviled Eggs Young Onions Bread Butter Cottage Cheese Tea Milk Rhubarb Sauce Cake Evening spent as Monday's, with bread to sponge, extra.

Wednesday. BREAKFAST. Bananas Omelette cooked in Calorie Wheat Cakes Maple Syrup Coffee Milk

This forenoon the living room needs a little care, and while the bread is baking I use the lower grate in the gas oven for a central pile and by having dough ready when the bread is put in the oven, less bake cookies, one pan at a time, while the bread bakes. I also have auditors below the flame for the Calorie.

DINNER. Beef Roast (in Calorie) Potatoes Brown Gravy Butter Beans Mustard Pickles Hot Rolls Honey Custard Pie Cheesecake Coffee Milk

The afternoon may be spent shopping, calling or sewing.

SUPPER. Cold Beef Potato Croquettes Rolls Radishes Tea Gingered Peas Cookies The evening is spent as before.

THURSDAY. Silver Prunes with Whipped Cream Quaker Wheat Berries Cream Bacon Eggs Rolls (warmed) Coffee Cookies

The forenoon is spent sweeping lightly up stairs as the previous week the rugs were cleaned by the vacuum cleaner, the house pumping for me before school, and at noon.

DINNER. Irish Stew (from yesterday's roast) Baked Potatoes Tomato Pickles Lettuce with Salad Dressing Bread Phloph Conserved Prune Whip Cream Coffee Milk Sowing occupies the main part of the afternoon.

SUPPER. French Fried Potatoes Egg Omelette Olives Bread and Butter Strawberry Shortcake The evening is spent as before.

Friday. BREAKFAST. Fruit Shredded Wheat Malt Cream Graham Gems Coffee Cup Cakes

After breakfast the children take turns clearing the table and pumping the vacuum cleaner, before going to school, as this is cleaning day down stairs.

DINNER. Fried Ballheads Mashed Potatoes Baked Beans with Tomato Sauce Sliced Cucumbers with Oil Nut Bread Butter Cornstarch Pudding with Chocolate Dressing Tea Milk

The afternoon is spent calling.

SUPPER. Potato Puff Egg Salad Mustard Sardines Baking Powder Biscuits Honey Baked Cocoa Cup Cakes Evening as before, with bread to sponge.

Saturday. BREAKFAST. Oranges Cream of Wheat Eggs on Toast Milk for the children Cookies Coffee

While the children clear the table I take up the first boiler of clothes and put in lot number two. Now the boys fill the machine and tub and I wash the dishes with the daughter's assistance. DAILY DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

CANCER A CONSTITUTIONAL DISEASE.

An Associated Press dispatch dated at Chicago, October 27, says that a physician there reports to a cancer research society, the cure of 200 cases of cancer by dietetic treatment, chiefly, purifying the blood so as to eliminate the condition that supports the growth of the cancer cell. It is stated that the medical world is just coming to the recognition of the fact that cancer is a constitutional disease and that rational treatment must not be confined to the local treatment. More than a year ago I stated in these hints a theory of the nature and origin of cancer as a derangement of nutrition, brought about by excessive mixing of foods, with excess of protein in animal foods, and that consequently the treatment must be largely dietetic. Arguments have frequently been advanced in the hints to support this conclusion: e. g., that the highest death rate from cancer occurs in England and America where the diet has been increasing in complexity with improvement in transportation of food stuffs, while there is little increase in the west of Ireland, southern Italy, and other countries where little change has been made; that the cancer rate is lowest in those countries generally in which the diet is simplest; and that those foreigners who adopt a more complex diet on coming to this country show an increase in the rate while those who adhere to their former simple diet—Italians, Greeks, Russians, etc.—show no increase.

USES FOR SOUR CREAM.

Sour cream may take the place of sweet cream in many cases, in making salad dressings, using less of vinegar and lemon juice in the salad.

Graham Cereals.—Two tablespoonfuls of sour cream is added to one tablespoonful of sugar; add one cup of sweet milk, one cupful of sour milk, one cupful of white flour, sifted with one teaspoonful of soda, salt and baking powder. Add a well-beaten egg; bake in hot pan.

Cream Biscuits.—Take one quart of flour with one teaspoonful each of soda, salt and baking powder sifted several times; then add two large tablespoonfuls of thick sour cream and milk enough to roll out very soft. Mix lightly and bake in a hot oven.

Horseradish Sauce.—This sauce is usually made using the sweet cream, but the sour cream, a half cup beaten with a little salt and sugar, added to half a cup of freshly grated horseradish makes a sauce equally as good.

Hermits.—Take a cupful of thick sour cream, two cupfuls of brown sugar, one cupful of chopped raisins, two-thirds of a cup of butter, two beaten eggs, one teaspoonful each of soda, cinnamon, cloves and nutmeg. Add flour enough to make as stiff as can be stirred, then drop by teaspoonfuls on a well-buttered pan. Bake in a medium oven.

Carrot Pie.—This is not a common recipe, but one that is highly satisfactory. Take a cup of sour cream, one cup of sugar, a cup of grated carrot, the yolks of two eggs, salt, cinnamon and nutmeg to taste. Bake in one crust and cover with a meringue, using the whites of the eggs and four tablespoonfuls of powdered sugar.

Vacation Chats.

The Art of Enjoying a Vacation.

ONE would think that enjoying the vacation was the easiest part of the whole affair. But to judge by what one hears from those who have returned from a vacation, it would seem that enjoying it is an art.

"Haven't had a decent thing to eat, the whole time I was away." "It rained nearly every day, and we had a horrid time." "I certainly am glad to get back to my comfortable bed." "Didn't like the people we met at all. They were dull as a hoe." "I'm dead broke"—gloomily.

These and a dozen more such expressions, in various tones of disgust, discontent, or weariness, are what you hear from many when vacations are over. So that to enjoy a vacation does not seem the surety it ought to be.

Doesn't the trouble lie in the fact that these people allow the little things to fill their whole horizon, and so they fail to see the big things. They cannot differentiate between the things that count and the things that do not count. And so they miss the real reason of the unreal.

A year from now they will probably have forgotten what they ate on the trip. But if they had stored up pleasant memories of beautiful scenery, or historical associations, the trip would always be a delight.

After six months have elapsed, who remembers an uncomfortable bed? Why then let it fill the whole holiday with gloom, instead of revelling in the beauty of mountain glens, the sound of water at night, or the sparkle of the ocean.

Instead of coming back, voting all the people you met, horses, why not return with a better understanding of human nature, and a much more sympathetic outlook upon life. Perhaps the quiet little woman who sat by you at the table has a life story that would give you a glimpse of heights and depths in life that would wonderfully enrich your nature. Every new light on life adds joy to living, and the quietest place affords interesting studies in human nature.

To thoroughly enjoy a vacation, get the real things out of it, and count the little things at their true value—as trifles that will be forgotten in a month. If the railway journey is tiresome, if the day is unbearably hot, if the steak at your hotel isn't cooked just the way you like it, do not let such things become the big things of your vacation to talk about and worry over. Forget them now, as you will eventually.

Take into your life the big things that your vacation stands for—rest, change, new interests, a new environment, a new viewpoint, new friends, a broader knowledge of human nature, greater sympathy, better knowledge of your own and other countries, a better comprehension of nature itself. These are the big things of life. These are the lasting things. They are the treasures to bring back from your vacation that will stay with you. Cultivate the art of enjoying these things, and you will be one of that enthusiastic throng, whom you always hear saying at the end of their vacation, "I had the time of my life."

THE BLACK PRINCE.

June 15.—Edward, Prince of Wales, surnamed the Black Prince, was born June 15, 1330. He was a warrior at the age of 15, accompanying his father Edward III on his invasion of France. The victory of Crecy August 26, 1346, showed that the youngster was worthy of his spurs and his pa made a knight of him. Pa said that the kid was responsible for the outcome of the battle, and he wanted to show his appreciation. So he knighted a few principalities and converted them into sovereignty and put the boy in charge. Pedro the Cruel was given a safe refuge when driven from his throne by his brother Henry, and Eddie undertook the task of getting Pedro's job back. This took some men and money and when Pedro refused to pay the "tax," Eddie had to raise the taxes. This caused a howl from the people who demanded that the king of France get busy with the "rebell." Eddie was hard of hearing and the king sent an army to cure him. When the king of France invaded his dominion and started to clean up Eddie decided that the climate of England was what he liked best and ducked. He died at Woodstock in his 16th year having an only son who was afterward Henry II. Edward coined the motto "Ich dien" (I serve) which is now used by every Prince of Wales.

CHAPTER X.

Dorothy March talks. Matinee girls in the Forrest Theater differ from their sisters of other New York playhouses in that they are far more serious than anybody in the evening audiences. Caramels, marshmallows, chocolate creams are forbidden by the unwritten law of their cult. The utmost nourishment one of them can allow herself is a salted almond nibbled surreptitiously between decorous little outbursts of kid-gloved applause. It is not the sort of gathering in which one would expect to find the bustling sleuth of the headquarters staff, especially with a great diamond mystery on his hands. Yet, on one of those warm January afternoons that make the metropolis wonder if it is being metamorphosed into a winter resort, one of the most interested auditors in the select little theater was Detective-Lieutenant Britz, of Manning's staff.

Britz found the somebody he sought when his gaze fell on a slim little figure in the trimmest of dove-colored gowns, sitting in the fifth row, by the center aisle. Instantly his last pretense of attention to the play vanished. Keeping his eyes on the gray curves of the girl in the fifth row, he quitted his post at one side of the house and walked slowly to the main exit, whence he watched her until the curtain fell on the first act. Meanwhile, he scribbled on a card, slipped a liberal tip into the receptive hand of an usher, and indicated the object of his interest. When the curtain fell on the first act, the usher hurried down the aisle, and presented the card to the girl in gray.

"If Miss March," read the young woman, "will spare a few minutes to Britz, of Headquarters, she will confer a favor and serve her friend, Mrs. Missioner."

Dorothy gathered her wrap, glasses and program quickly and followed the usher to the back of the theater. The youth led her to the famous detective, whom, though she had heard of him through Doris Missioner, she beheld for the first time.

"You wished to see me?" inquired Dorothy. It was a banal question, and a flush tinged her cheeks as she realized its superficiality. But it was the greatest detective in New York. But Britz seemed not to notice it, and the simple directness of his manner put the girl at ease.

"I took the liberty, Miss March," he said pleasantly, "because I saw you across the orchestra, and I need a short course in social knowledge." His smile robbed the reply of flippancy.

"Fancy!" said Dorothy. She was so utterly at sea as to the detective's purpose she could think of nothing else to say save: "I fear you have caught a poor teacher."

"Well, I don't know now," Britz returned, looking at her with respectful admiration. "You see, you're a society girl, and I know nothing of society, and there's something I want to know—something I ought to know."

"If there's anything I can tell you, Mr. Britz, I'll be glad to do so," Dorothy volunteered. "Especially if it will help you to find Mrs. Missioner's diamonds."

"I'm not sure it will," said Britz. "It may, however, save me from seeking them in the wrong place. You seemed to enjoy the play, Miss March."

This shift of subjects was so abrupt that if Dorothy's breath had not already been coming in catches, she might have gasped. It was evident that the detective was more original than society men. She wondered absently if the type was worth studying.

"Why, yes," her hesitating answer came. "I believe it's considered one of the best bits of the season. Very elevating, you know, and—well, different."

"Modern, Miss March?"

"It has two periods. The first deals with the life of today, the second harks back to the early Victorian period with, I understand, an abrupt return to the present."

She was chatting quite easily with the detective now, and she knew just to the men on that occasion. "Well, Miss March," and his smile from a younger man would have been called caressing, "we've started with discussion of the play, and we touched on authorship, the founder of the Four Hundred, the war with Spain and a dozen other subjects. Funny how chatter zigzags, isn't it? I was about to say that from all I understand, the society men of today are not as accomplished, even if they are talented, as the beaux of good Queen Victoria's girlhood. Come, now, I'd be willing to bet a box of bonbons you don't know half a dozen men who can draw anything except checkers."

"Oh, yes, I do!" she cried gayly. Then, meditatively, "Half a dozen, you say? Do you know, Mr. Britz, I think you win."

"You don't know as many as six?" Britz inquired, as if the fate of empires hung on his winning the wager that as yet was only a hypothesis.

"It's humiliating, isn't it?" she said naively. "But I don't. There are two or three, though—Teddy Lorimer and Mr. Griswold, and that queer little Frenchman, Anatole—Anatole—oh, you know who I mean?"

"Anatole Daubigny?"

"Yes—he draws the funniest, dearest little dogs."

"And his monkeys, Miss March. Don't forget his monkeys."

"Aren't they simply—simply ravishing?" the girl returned. "And have you seen his newest satire on the Newport set—a lot of apes and baboons and chimpanzees in evening dress sitting at the table with several men and women? A Family Reunion," he calls it."

"Delightful!" said Britz with enthusiasm equaling hers. "I perceive we enjoy a good many things in common, Miss March."

She smiled. It was not every matinee girl who could interest a man who solved world-famous mysteries.

"Isn't it strange!" she said. Then the training of years recalled her to a sense of what she was doing. "I fear we've been very unconventional, Mr. Britz," she said as primly as her prettiness permitted. "But I've enjoyed our little chat very much."

"Which means I must be going," said Britz promptly. "If I'm not to spoil your enjoyment of the mid-Victorian scene. The orchestra has finished speaking its little piece."

"Yes, there goes the curtain," agreed Dorothy, rising hastily. "So glad to have met you, Mr. Britz. I hope I've been of some assistance about dear Mrs. Missioner's jewels. Good-afternoon."

"But, Mr. Britz," she cried, "there was something you wished to ask me—something that was to help you find the diamonds?"

"Some other time, Miss March, thank you," said Britz, smiling. "I won't detain you now. Perhaps we'll meet at another matinee soon, with a longer intermission between the acts. Delighted to have made your acquaintance, Miss March. I know you're in a hurry to get back to your seat. Forrest audiences don't like to be disturbed, you know. Good-afternoon, Miss March, and—thank you so much!"

He had cause to thank her, he believed. For, in her girlish talk, he had given him the first Missioner clue of the week—or, rather, she had extended for him a thread of the mystery that had occupied much of his thoughts from the moment when he received Logan's cable saying the paste jewels were made from sketches. For days, he had sought to learn who among Mrs. Missioner's intimates was artist enough to make such delicate draughts of the diamonds as would be required by an artist for the manufacture of imitations. With that object, he had ascertained Dorothy's intention to go to the matinee in the Forrest and had gone to the theater to meet her under conditions not likely to interfere with such gentle questioning of her as he meant to do. His veiled interrogation of the society girl had brought forth the fact that Curtis Griswold could sketch—that the clubman was sufficiently master of his pencil to have his skill pretty generally known among his acquaintances. Lorimer and Daubigny, the other society artists she had mentioned, were not, he knew, in Mrs. Missioner's circle.

It was fortunate for Lieutenant Britz, as well as for Ethel Holcomb and Doctor Pritch, and everybody whose hopes hinged on the detective's success in solving the great Missioner diamond mystery, that long custom made him thread the traffic of the city's throbbing artery automatically, for so deeply did the sleuth ponder the possibilities of his newest information that he had several close escapes from taxicabs, private automobiles and trolley cars as he crossed Broadway and bent his steps toward Fifth avenue. The case had cleared a little, but his course was not much plainer than it had been when he dropped into the theater in quest of further knowledge.

"It won't do to call Miss March as a witness," he mused, walking north in the carriage-crowded avenue, with that briskness characteristic of him when his brain was most active. "She can't absolutely prove anything." It was necessary to obtain tangible evidence of Griswold's ability as a draughtsman. How to do so without alarming the clubman was the present problem.

Britz by no means was prepared to suspect Griswold of the robbery. He realized thoroughly that Dorothy's information was all he had to indicate Griswold any more than Sands, or two or three others. He did not even know whether Miss Holcomb could draw, and it was so part of his purpose to distress the imprisoned girl with questions betraying the smallest belief in the accusation against her. No; Britz always honest with himself, could not say he suspected Griswold. His method was the opposite of Donnelly's and Carson's. Instead of suspecting everybody, as they invariably did in cases at all mysterious, he would not attach suspicion to anyone without satisfactory proof. That was the secret of his success. He was more than a detective; he was prosecutor, judge, jury and counsel to the defense. It accounted for the fact that he rarely made a mistaken arrest, and that when he caused man or woman to be placed in the prisoner's dock, a conviction almost always followed.

"Griswold, Sands, All, Blodgett—" The names presented themselves to the sleuth's mind in that order as he hastened along with no particular place as an objective—merely walking to stimulate his mental process. It always brightened Britz to pass the panorama of fashion in Fifth avenue. It was with an almost fatherly feeling he glanced at the rich, the debonaire, the gay sauntering along the sidewalks or rolling in automobiles and carriages up and down the asphalt. The safety of their wealth, sometimes of their very lives, depended on the vigilance, courage and efficiency of himself, and of the few men like him on the police force of New York. So far as the rank and file of the department were concerned, those care-free sons and daughters of opportunity might be at the mercy of the subtle birds of prey in the human flock. It was because Britz and his comrades worked and watched and waited so patiently, so devotedly, so ceaselessly, that fashion and finance, coquetry and commerce, could back in the sunshine of metropolitan prosperity.

Stone In Bladder Removed Without Surgical Operation

In the Spring of 1904 I was confined to my bed with kidney trouble and thought that I would never recover. I took a lot of medicine but did not realize any benefit from anything. I finally saw Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root advertisement and sent for a sample bottle and thought the sample bottle helped me, so I bought more of the medicine from my Druggist and after using a few bottles discharged a very large stone from my bladder.

After passing this stone my health was very much improved and I have been able to continue my business without any serious sickness.

My Corns Don't Hurt A Bit

Tired, Ailing, Swollen, Smelly, Sweaty Feet, Corns, Callouses and Bunions, TIZ Cures Right Off.

Say goodbye to your corns the very first time you use TIZ. You will never know you have a corn, bunion or callous, or swollen, tired, ailing, smelly feet any more. It's just wonderful the way the pain vanishes. Into the corn—hammer it with your flat if you wish—no more pain after TIZ than if there had never been a bluish spot on your foot. Doesn't that sound good to you? Don't it? Then read this:

"THE CORNS ON EITHER OF MY FEET WERE AS LARGE AS THE FINGER OF MY MARY. TO CORN THEM TODAY THERE IS NO SIGN OF CORNS ON EITHER FOOT AND NO SORENESS. THIS IS AN ABSOLUTE GUARANTEE."—SAM A. HOWELL, PHOENIX, N. C.

Just use TIZ. It's not like anything else for the purpose you ever heard of. It's the only foot remedy ever made which acts on the principal of drawing out all the poisonous exudations which cause sore feet. Powders and other remedies merely clog up the pores. TIZ cleans them out and keeps them clean. It works right off. You will feel better the very first time you use it. Use it a week and you can't get corns any more. There is nothing on earth that can compare with it. TIZ is for sale at all druggists, 25 cents per box, or direct, if you wish, from Walter Luther Dodge & Co., Chicago, Ill.

Public Spirited Citizens

There are a great many people who are wont to talk about doing for the home town and who seem to forget when an opportunity presents itself to do their little mite in assisting things at home, and fail to recognize their responsibility in this connection.

In making their purchases, even though it may be a small item, they are wont to send to some out of town concern thinking that they save a little money or that they can secure a better assortment. The fact of the matter is, Janesville has better retail stores—take it right through the entire list of goods, than most any city in the Northwest of its size. With a half-million dollars invested in dry goods alone, the variety and range for selection presented ought to meet the requirements of most every one and, if it does not, there are among the dealers enough who are anxious to please, who will do all in their power to secure material to suit your ideas.

The clothing stores are very large and offer as good assortment as one could find in the largest cities. Prices, too, are usually lower than can be secured elsewhere. There is hardly a well known make of clothing which is not represented in the various stores.

Everything in the way of style is looked to with care. Groceries, Furniture, Shoes, Hardware, Suits, Garments, Paints, Books, Wall Papers, Planos, Drugs, Buggies, Automobiles—in fact, most every article you can name is offered here in an advantageous way. Investigate the next time you have in mind the out of town purchase—you will change your mind.
